Email to utility and HEI employees

In the weeks and months to come, we know you'll continue to have questions about NextEra Energy's future plans. We'll be providing regular updates to the Q&A posted on our intranet. And we also encourage you to attend one of the upcoming town hall meetings to ask questions and share your thoughts.

In the meantime, here are a couple of things to note about communications during the months ahead:

Public company = Public information

Some of you have asked why we couldn't inform all employees about the announcement well ahead of time. Because HEI stock is publicly traded, under Securities Exchange Commission rules, the announcement is considered significant information for investors or potential investors. So it can't be shared with a big group (such as our 2800 employees) without also widely publicizing the information externally.

Also, for this reason, many of our employee communications must also be filed with the SEC to ensure the same information is available to the public. This is why you see the legal language that appears at the end of this email on a lot of our employee communications about the transaction.

Ongoing media coverage

The potential merger with NextEra Energy is clearly major news—not only for us, but also for our community. So we can expect that the news media will continue to look for new storylines hypothesizing about what may happen in the future. Regardless of media stories, you should know this: NextEra Energy will take the time to get to know our organization, our workforce and our business needs in making future decisions. And until the transaction is completed, we continue to operate as separate and independent companies.

Again, please continue sending your questions and other feedback to CorporateCommunications@hawaiianelectric.com. Mahalo!

Forward Looking Statements

This document contains forward-looking statements within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. Forward-looking statements are typically identified by words or phrases such as may, will, anticipate, estimate, expect, project, intend, plan, believe, predict, and target and of similar meaning. Forward-looking statements involve estimates, expectations, projections, goals, forecasts, assumptions, risks and uncertainties. HEI cautions readers that any forward-looking statement is not a guarantee of future performance and that actual results could differ materially from those contained in any forward-looking statement. Such forward-looking statements include, but are not limited to, statements about the anticipated benefits of the proposed merger involving NEE and HEI, including future financial or operating results of NEE or HEI, NEE's or HEI's plans, objectives, expectations or intentions, the expected timing of completion of the transaction, the value, as of the completion of the merger or spin-off of HEI's bank subsidiary or as of any other date in the future, of any consideration to be received in the merger or the spin-off in the form of stock or any other security, and other statements that are not historical facts. Important factors that could cause actual results to differ materially from those indicated by any such forward-looking statements include risks and uncertainties relating to: the risk that HEI may be unable to obtain shareholder approval for the merger or that NEE or HEI may be unable to obtain governmental and regulatory approvals required for the merger or the spin-off, or required governmental and regulatory approvals may delay the merger or the spin-off or result in the imposition of conditions that could cause the parties to abandon the transaction; the risk that a condition to closing of the merger or the completion of the spin-off may not be satisfied; the timing to consummate the proposed merger and the expected timing of the completion of the spin-off; the risk that the businesses will not be integrated successfully; the risk that the cost savings and any other synergies from the transaction may not be fully realized or may take longer to realize than expected; disruption from the transaction making it more difficult to maintain relationships with customers, employees or suppliers; the diversion of management time and attention on merger and spin-off-related issues; general worldwide economic conditions and related uncertainties; the effect and timing of changes in laws or in governmental regulations (including environmental); fluctuations in trading prices of securities and in the financial results of NEE, HEI or any of their subsidiaries; the timing and extent of changes in interest rates, commodity prices and demand and market prices for electricity; and other factors discussed or referred to in the Risk Factors section of HEI's most recent Annual Report on Form 10-K filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission. These risks, as well as other risks associated with the merger, will be more fully discussed in the proxy statement/prospectus that will be included in the Registration Statement on Form S-4 that will be filed with the SEC in connection with the merger. Additional risks and uncertainties are identified and discussed in HEI's reports filed with the SEC and available at the SEC's website at www.sec.gov. Each forward-looking statement speaks only as of the date of the particular statement and HEI does not undertake any obligation to update or revise its forward-looking statements, whether as a result of new information, future events or otherwise.
