Item 2.02. Results of Operations and Financial Condition.

On February 21, 2013, Wright Medical Group, Inc. issued a press release announcing its consolidated financial results for the quarter ended December 31, 2012. A copy of the press release is furnished as Exhibit 99 to this Current Report and is not considered "filed" under the Exchange Act, and shall not be incorporated into any previous or future filings by Wright under the Securities Act or the Exchange Act.

The attached press release includes the following non-GAAP measures: net sales, excluding the impact of foreign currency; operating income, as adjusted; net income, as adjusted; net income, as adjusted, per diluted share; effective tax rate, as adjusted; and free cash flow.

These non-GAAP measures are not in accordance with, or an alternative for, generally accepted accounting principles and may be different from non-GAAP measures used by other companies. In addition, these non-GAAP measures are not based on any comprehensive set of accounting rules or principles. We believe that non-GAAP measures have limitations in that they do not reflect all of the amounts associated with our results of operations as determined in accordance with GAAP and that these measures should only be used to evaluate our results of operations in conjunction with the corresponding GAAP measures.

For our internal budgeting and resource allocation process, our management uses financial information that does not include (a) restructuring charges, (b) non-cash stock-based compensation expense, (c) costs associated with governmental inquiries and our deferred prosecution agreement (DPA), (d) non-cash inventory step-up amortization, (e) transaction costs and non-cash write-off of deferred financing fees associated with the 2.625% Convertible Senior Notes due 2014 (2014 Convertible Notes) tender offer, (f) costs associated with distributor conversions and amortization of non-competes, (g) loss on the termination of the interest rate swap, (h) non-cash interest expense related to the Convertible Notes due 2017 (2017 Convertible Notes), (i) the unrealized loss on the mark-to-market of derivatives, (j) transaction costs and non-cash write-off of deferred financing fees associated with the termination of the senior credit facility and certain 2014 Convertible Notes, (k) product liability provision, (l) expenses associated with certain employment matters, (m) gain on the sale of intellectual property, (n) due diligence and transaction costs, (o) increase to management's estimate of the Company's probable insurance recovery for previously recognized costs associated with product liability claims, and (p) the income tax effects of the foregoing. Additionally, for our internal budgeting process and evaluation of net sales performance, our management uses net sales in constant currency. To measure our sales performance on a constant currency basis, it is necessary to remove the impact of changes in foreign exchange rates, which affects the comparability and trend of sales. Net sales, excluding the impact of foreign currency, is calculated by translating current year results at prior year average foreign currency exchange rates. For our internal budgeting and resource allocation process, management uses free cash flow. Free cash flow is calculated by subtracting capital expenditures from cash provided by operating activities.

We use these non-GAAP financial measures in making operating decisions because we believe the measures provide meaningful supplemental information regarding our core operational performance and give us a better understanding of how we should invest in research and development activities and how we should allocate resources to both ongoing and prospective business initiatives. We use these measures to help make budgeting and spending decisions, for example, between product development expenses and research and development, sales and marketing and general and administrative expenses. Additionally, management is evaluated on the basis of these non-GAAP financial measures when determining achievement of their incentive performance compensation targets. Further, these non-GAAP financial measures facilitate management's internal comparisons to both our historical operating results and to our competitors' operating results.

As described above, we exclude the following items from one or more of our non-GAAP measures:

Foreign currency impact on net sales. We excluded the foreign currency impact on net sales compared to prior year from our non-GAAP measure, primarily because it is not reflective of our ongoing operating results, and it is not used by management for our internal budgeting process and evaluation of net sales performance. We further believe that excluding this item from our non-GAAP results is useful to investors in that it allows for period-over-period comparability.

Restructuring charges. We excluded restructuring charges associated with the cost restructuring plan announced in September 2011 from our non-GAAP measures, primarily because they are not reflective of our ongoing operating results, and they are not used by management to assess the core profitability of our business operations. We further believe that excluding this item from our non-GAAP results is useful to investors in that it allows for period-over-period comparability.

Non-cash stock-based compensation expense. We excluded stock-based compensation expenses from our non-GAAP measures primarily because they are non-cash expenses. We believe that it is useful to investors to understand the application of Financial Accounting Standards Board Accounting Standard Codification Topic 718, Compensation - Stock Compensation (FASB ASC 718) and its impact on our operational performance, liquidity, and our ability to invest in research and development and fund acquisitions and capital expenditures. While stock-based compensation expense calculated in accordance with FASB ASC 718 constitutes an ongoing and recurring expense, such expense is excluded from our non-GAAP results because it is not an expense that requires cash settlement and is not used by management to assess the core profitability of our business operations. We further believe that excluding this item from our non-GAAP results is useful to investors in that it allows for greater transparency to certain line items in our financial statements. In addition, excluding this item from our non-GAAP results facilitates comparisons to our competitors' operating results.

Costs associated with government inquiry and our DPA. We recognized costs associated with the ongoing U.S. government inquiry, primarily legal fees as we respond to the inquiry, and our DPA (including the associated independent monitor). We excluded those costs from our non-GAAP results because such costs are not used by management to assess the core profitability of our business operations. We further believe that these measures are useful to investors in that they allow for period-over-period comparability.

Non-cash inventory step-up amortization. We excluded inventory step-up amortization associated with our acquisitions from our non-GAAP measures, primarily because they are not reflective of our ongoing operating results, and they are not used by management to assess the core profitability of our business operations. Additionally, because these are non-cash expenses, they do not impact our operational performance, liquidity, or our ability to invest in research and development and fund acquisitions and capital expenditures. We further believe that excluding this item from our non-GAAP results is useful to investors in that it allows for period-over-period comparability.

Transaction costs and non-cash write-off of deferred financing fees associated with our Convertible Notes tender offer. We excluded the transaction costs and non-cash deferred financing fees from our non-GAAP measures, primarily because they are not reflective of our ongoing operating results, and they are not used by management to assess the core profitability of our business operations. We further believe that excluding this item from our non-GAAP results is useful to investors in that they allow for period-over-period comparability.

Distributor conversion costs and amortization of distributor non-competes. In connection with our initiative to convert a portion of our independent foot and ankle distributor territories to direct employee sales representation, we entered into conversion agreements with certain independent distributors, which included non-competition clauses. We excluded the distributor conversion costs and amortization of distributor non-competes from our non-GAAP measures, primarily because they are not reflective of our ongoing operating results, and they are not used by management to assess the core profitability of our business operations. We further believe that excluding this item from our non-GAAP results is useful to investors in that they allow for period-over-period comparability.

Loss on termination of interest rate swap. We excluded the amount of loss on the termination of our interest rate swap from our non-GAAP measures, primarily because it is not reflective of our ongoing operating results, and it is not used by management to assess the core profitability of our business operations. We further believe that excluding this item from our non-GAAP results is useful to investors in that they allow for period-over-period comparability.

Non-cash interest expense related to the 2017 Convertible Notes. We excluded the non-cash interest expense associated with the amortization of the debt discount related to our 2017 Convertible Notes from our non-GAAP measures, primarily because it is a non-cash expense. We believe that it is useful to investors to understand our operational performance, liquidity, and our ability to invest in research and development and fund acquisitions and capital expenditures. While interest expense associated with the amortization of the debt discount constitutes an ongoing and recurring expense, such expense is excluded from our non-GAAP results because it is not an expense that requires cash settlement and is not used by management to assess the core profitability of our business operations. We further believe that excluding this item from our non-GAAP results is useful to investors in that it allows for period-over-period comparability.

Unrealized loss on the mark-to-market of the derivatives. We excluded the amount of unrealized loss on the mark-to-market adjustments on the derivatives from our non-GAAP measures, primarily because it is not reflective of our ongoing operating results, and it is not used by management to assess the core profitability of our business operations. We further believe that excluding this item from our non-GAAP results is useful to investors in that they allow for period-over-period comparability.

Non-cash write-off of deferred financing fees associated with the termination of the senior credit facility and certain 2017 Convertible Notes. We excluded the non-cash write-off of deferred financing fees from our non-GAAP measures, primarily because they are not reflective of our ongoing operating results, and they are not used by management to assess the core profitability of our business operations. We further believe that excluding this item from our non-GAAP results is useful to investors in that they allow for period-over-period comparability.

Product liability provision. We excluded the charge for management's estimate of our total liability for claims associated with previous and estimated future fractures of our titanium Profemur® long modular necks in North America. We excluded this charge from our non-GAAP results because it is not reflective of our ongoing operating results, and it is not used by management to assess the core profitability of our business operations. We further believe that these measures are useful to investors in that they allow for period-over-period comparability.

Employment matters. We excluded the costs associated with the settlement of certain employment matters and the hiring of a new CEO, primarily because they are not reflective of our ongoing operating results, and they are not used by management to assess the core profitability of our business operations. We further believe that excluding this item from our non-GAAP results is useful to investors in that they allow for period-over-period comparability.

Gain on the sale of intellectual property. We excluded the gain recognized in conjunction with the sale of certain intellectual property rights from our non-GAAP measures, primarily because they are not reflective of our ongoing operating results, and they are not used by management to assess the core profitability of our business operations. We further believe that excluding this item from our non-GAAP results is useful to investors in that they allow for period-over-period comparability.

Due diligence and transaction costs. We excluded the due diligence and transaction costs from our non-GAAP measures, primarily because they are not reflective of our ongoing operating results, and they are not used by management to assess the core profitability of our business operations. We further believe that excluding this item from our non-GAAP results is useful to investors in that they allow for period-over-period comparability.

Increase to management's estimate of the Company's probable insurance recovery for previously recognized costs associated with product liability claims. In the fourth quarter of 2012, we recorded an insurance receivable for the probable insurance recovery of spending in excess of our aggregate retention in certain claim years. We excluded the portion of such recovery that related to previously recognized costs from our non-GAAP measures, primarily because it is not reflective of our ongoing operating results, and it was not used by management to assess the core profitability of our business operations. We further believe that excluding this item from our non-GAAP results is useful to investors in that they allow for period-over-period comparability.

Income tax effects of the foregoing. This amount is used to present each of the amounts described above, except for foreign currency impact on net sales, on an after-tax basis consistent with the presentation of net income, as adjusted.

We believe that non-GAAP measures have limitations in that they do not reflect all of the amounts associated with our financial results as determined in accordance with GAAP and that these measures should only be used to evaluate our financial results in conjunction with the corresponding GAAP measures, and that is why we qualify the use of non-GAAP financial information in a statement when non-GAAP information is presented.

We further believe that where the adjustments used in calculating net income, as adjusted, and net income, as adjusted, per diluted share are based on specific, identified amounts that impact different line items in our Consolidated Statements of Operations (including operating income and net income), that it is useful to investors to understand how these specific line items in our Consolidated Statements of Operations are affected by these adjustments for the following reasons:

Operating income. Excluding non-cash stock-based compensation expense and non-cash inventory step-up amortization from the calculation of operating income assists investors in evaluating period-over-period changes without giving effect to these charges which are non-cash in nature, in order to evaluate the results of the underlying operating activities for the periods presented. Excluding restructuring charges, the costs associated with our DPA, distributor conversion costs and amortization of distributor non-competes, product liability provisions, employment matters, product liability insurance recovery, due diligence and transaction costs, and gain on sale of intellectual property from the calculation of operating income assists investors in evaluating period-over-period changes in this measure without giving effect to transactions that do not relate to the performance of our ongoing operations.

Net Income. Excluding non-cash stock-based compensation expense, non-cash inventory step-up amortization, non-cash write off of deferred financing fees related to the 2014 Convertible Notes tender offer, non-cash interest expense related to the 2017 Convertible Notes, and non-cash write-off of deferred financing fees associated with the termination of the senior credit facility and certain 2017 Convertible Notes from the calculation of net income assists investors in evaluating period-over-period changes without giving effect to these charges which are non-cash in nature, in order to evaluate the results of the underlying operating activities for the periods presented. Excluding restructuring charges, the costs associated with our DPA, transaction costs related to the 2014 Convertible Notes tender offer, distributor conversion costs and amortization of distributor non-competes, loss on termination of interest rate swap, unrealized loss on the mark-to-market adjustments on the derivatives, product liability provision, employment matters, product liability insurance recovery, due diligence and transaction costs, and gain on sale of intellectual property from the calculation of net income assists investors in evaluating period-over-period changes in this measure without giving effect to transactions that do not relate to the performance of our ongoing operations.

Effective Tax Rate. Excluding the income tax effect of the non-GAAP, pre-tax adjustments from the provision for income taxes assists investors in understanding the tax provision associated with those adjustments and our effective tax rate related to our ongoing operations.
