Summary of Consolidated Financial Results

Management Policies

Objectives

ORIX has continued to provide value-added financial products and services to meet its customers' needs. As the services that customers demand have diversified, we have increased the number and quality of the financial solutions that we provide. As a result, ORIX's financial services have expanded from leasing, rentals and lending to include life insurance, real estate finance and investment banking activities. As new business opportunities arise in the future, we plan to build on our accumulated knowledge and experience to continue to provide creative and innovative value-added financial solutions.

ORIX aims to achieve the optimum growth in long-term shareholder value and contribute to society by taking the lead in discovering customers' needs in order to provide new value-added financial services. This is the basis of ORIX's management philosophy and we will further strive to focus on areas that fully utilize the specialization of the entire ORIX Group in order to meet our customers' needs.

ORIX has placed the utmost importance on profitability by carefully selecting businesses and concentrating its resources to achieve maximum growth in shareholder value. However, in the Japanese financial market, it is quite difficult to achieve a level of risk-adjusted return that is comparable to the global standards. In light of this fact, ORIX is striving to increase the efficiency of its asset-based business and is concentrating more of its resources on investment banking activities with the goal of increasing profitability without increasing assets.

Dividend Policy

Dividends for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2003 are expected to be 25 yen per common share (15 yen for fiscal year ended March 31, 2002), pending passage of a resolution at the 40th General Annual Meeting of Shareholders scheduled for June 25, 2003. The dividend was increased to address the long downward trend in the dividend payout ratio. ORIX continues to believe that the Company should strive to maximize the return to shareholders by increasing corporate value. There is no change in the basic policy of using retained earnings to invest in highly profitable areas to achieve continued growth.

Unit Shares

ORIX's basic policy is to periodically review the number of common shares that make up one trading unit in order to promote a broad participation by investors. With regards to the number of shares that make one unit, ORIX will consider demands from the market and weigh the costs and benefits associated with any changes to the present trading unit.

Corporate Governance

ORIX has strengthened its corporate governance structure in order to more objectively ensure that business activities are being carried out to maximize shareholder value. For example, ORIX established an Advisory Board in 1997, introduced a Corporate Executive Officer system in 1998, and welcomed independent directors to the Board and set up the Executive Nomination and Compensation Committee in 1999. In addition, ORIX believes that compliance is a foundation of strong corporate governance and continues to strengthen its compliance based on the spirit of EC21, which is our guide to continue to be an "Excellent Company" in the 21st Century. We are actively promoting our Corporate Action Principles and Employee Action Principles as part of compliance. In order to take further steps to strengthen its corporate governance structure, ORIX's Board of Directors will propose to shareholders at the upcoming 40th Annual General Meeting of Shareholders that ORIX adopt a "Company with Committees" system, which became possible on April 1, 2003 as a result of revisions to the Japanese Commercial Code.

Table of ContentsFinancial Results*1. Fiscal Year Ended March 31, 2003*Economic Environment

Although the world economy experienced a slight recovery at the beginning of the fiscal year, growth slowed again later in the fiscal year due to greater deflationary pressures. The U.S. economy was able to continue its positive growth, but experienced uncertainty against the backdrop of the war in Iraq and concerns regarding employment. Capital expenditures in Europe were stagnant and resulted in a marked deceleration in the economy. Despite the recovery of the Asian economy, personal consumption and the expansion of exports peaked out and overall economic growth slowed. Japan was equally affected by the events in the world economy. In the first half, a rise in exports and recovery in production led to an improvement in certain areas, however, uncertainty surrounding the future of the world economy and stagnation of the stock market caused a slowdown in the Japanese economy. Furthermore, deflationary pressures continued throughout the fiscal year.

Financial Highlights

Income before Income Taxes	46,288 million yen (Down 37% year on year)
Net Income	30,243 million yen (Down 25% year on year)
Earnings Per Share (Basic)	361.44 yen (Down 26% year on year)
Earnings Per Share (Diluted)	340.95 yen (Down 27% year on year)
Shareholders Equity Per Share	6,039.43 yen (Up 1% year on year)
ROE	6.0% (March 31, 2002: 8.4%)
ROA	0.49% (March 31, 2002: 0.67%)

Revenues: 683,645 million yen (Up 4% year on year)

In addition to increases in residential condominium sales, other operating revenues grew as a result of contributions from new businesses and companies in which investments were made as part of ORIX's corporate restructuring business. While there was a 9% decrease in revenues in the life insurance business owing to a change in business strategy emphasizing profitability, overall revenues were up 4% year on year to 683,645 million yen.

Expenses: 645,562 million yen (Up 10% year on year)

Lower interest expense and a drop in life insurance costs in line with lower life insurance revenues, reduced expenses. However, increased costs of residential condominium sales that accompanied the growth in revenues from condominium development, and the increase in selling, general and administrative expenses due to expansion of our business led to higher costs. In addition, the write-down of a golf course in the second quarter and other properties including rental office buildings, hotels, and golf courses in the fourth quarter that were recorded as write-downs of long-lived assets totaled 50,682 million yen. Furthermore, an increase in the provision for doubtful receivables and possible loan losses was made in light of the deterioration of the airline industry in North America. These factors contributed to an increase in overall expenses of 10% year on year to 645,562 million yen.

Net Income: 30,243 million yen (Down 25% year on year)

Although operating income fell 48% year on year, net income only decreased 25% to 30,243 million yen owing to a marked gain in equity in net income (loss) of and gain (loss) on sales of affiliates, an extraordinary gain from the excess of the proportionate fair value of the net assets over the purchase price paid by the Company, negative goodwill, for an affiliate accounted for by the equity method, and the cumulative effect of a change in accounting principle relating to negative goodwill arising from prior acquisitions.

Operating Assets: 5,168 billion yen (Down 7% year on year)

New business volumes in areas related to corporate real estate-related finance and the consumer card loan operations, in addition to direct financing leases as a result of acquisitions continued to be strong. However, some direct financing lease and loan assets were securitized, and some investment in securities were liquidated in the life insurance operations. In addition, other operating assets declined due to the listing and sale of units of a J-REIT in the first quarter. As a result, operating assets were 5,168 billion yen, down 7% on March 31, 2002.

Segment Information (Profits refer to income before income taxes)

Domestic Operations

Corporate Finance: Operating assets increased as a result of acquisitions, while segment assets at the end of March were down year on year as a result of the securitization of direct financing leases. Total segment profits fell 8%, or 3,908 million yen, year on year to 44,158 million yen as a result of a lower level of gains from securitizations.

Equipment Operating Leases: The automobile rental operations performed well, but the precision measuring equipment rental business, which makes up the majority of this segment, continued to suffer due to weak demand in the IT sector. In addition, a provision of 2,360 million yen was made for investments in aircraft leasing. As a result, segment profits decreased to 4,402 million yen from 9,906 million yen in the same period of the previous fiscal year.

Real Estate-Related Finance: Segment profits jumped more than three-fold to 19,572 million yen from 5,654 million yen in the previous fiscal year. The segment saw a continued strong contribution from consumer housing loans including those purchased in the second half of the previous fiscal year and corporate non-recourse loans. Proceeds from the listing and sale of a J-REIT in the first quarter and gains from the sale of real estate-related assets in the fourth quarter also contributed to profits.

Real Estate: The condominium development business continued to perform well. Segment revenues also included gains from the sales of some office buildings, and revenues from rental properties and building maintenance operations. However, this segment recorded a loss of 39,441 million yen compared with a profit of 5,842 million yen in the previous fiscal year due to 50,682 million yen (2,716 million yen in the previous fiscal year) in write-downs of certain real estate assets.

Life Insurance: A shift in strategy away from savings-type to insurance-only life insurance products was implemented to increase profitability, but the worsening economic environment led to a decrease in life insurance related investment income. As a result, segment profits decreased 973 million yen to 4,791 million yen compared to 5,764 million yen in the previous fiscal year.

Other: Segment profits rose sharply to 8,452 million yen compared to 4,941 million yen in the previous fiscal year thanks to an increase in interest on consumer card loans as well as a contribution from the securitization of loans in the card loan business.

Foreign Operations

The Americas: While the costs associated with restructuring of our truck and construction equipment leasing business declined compared to the previous fiscal year, the commercial mortgage-backed securities operations experienced lower earnings. Against the backdrop of a weak American economy, provision for doubtful receivables and possible loan losses and write-downs of securities were recorded, but segment profits increased to 1,332 million yen compared to 810 million yen in the previous fiscal year.

Asia and Oceania: Strong performance of the corporate lending and automobile leasing operations of each company in the region and contribution from equity method affiliates resulted in an increase in segment profits to 9,765 million yen compared to 5,433 million yen in the previous fiscal year.

Europe: While the sale of investment securities contributed to profits in the previous fiscal year, no particular contributions were made this fiscal year, resulting in a segment loss of 736 million yen compared to a segment profit of 600 million yen in the previous fiscal year.

2. Summary of Cash Flows (Fiscal Year Ended March 31, 2003)

Cash and cash equivalents decreased by 42.3% or 150,071 million yen to 204,677 million yen compared to March 31, 2002.

Cash flows from operating activities decreased 18.4% to 210,150 million yen, due mainly to an 85.6% decline in the growth of policy liabilities as a result of the shift away from savings-type products and an increase in other operating assets held for sale, including advance payments.

Cash flows from investing activities were 182,950 million yen, compared to a net outflow of 305,711 million yen in the previous fiscal year. The change was primarily due to a considerably lower level of other operating assets purchased (119,700 million yen in previous fiscal year), a decrease in the amount of securities purchased compared to the previous fiscal year, proceeds from a decrease in other operating assets and the sales of securities.

Cash flows from financing activities, were a net outflow of 542,040 million yen, compared to a net inflow of 246,116 million yen in the previous fiscal year due to the repayment of commercial paper and debt.

3. Summary of Fourth Quarter (Three Months Ended March 31, 2003)

In the fourth quarter, revenues increased 7,921 million yen. Interest on loans and investment securities, and other operating revenues both increased while brokerage commissions and gains on investment securities decreased. The 36,017 million yen in write-downs of long-lived assets recorded in the fourth quarter was the main factor contributing to a 45,267 million yen increase in expenses compared to the fourth quarter of the previous fiscal year. As a result, there was an operating loss of 17,539 million yen, down 37,346 million yen compared to the fourth quarter of the previous fiscal year. Income before income taxes was a loss of 15,010 million yen and the net loss for the fourth quarter was held to 4,969 million yen due primarily to an extraordinary gain from the recognition of negative goodwill from an affiliate accounted for by the equity method.

4. Outlook and Forecasts for the Fiscal Year Ending March 31, 2004

In light of concerns of a worldwide recession, it is still uncertain how the world economy will be affected. Corporate earnings and personal consumption are expected to remain sluggish in Japan.

Despite the difficulties in the economic environment, for the fiscal year ending March 31, 2004, we forecast revenues of 730,000 million yen (up 7% compared with the fiscal year ended March 31, 2003), income before income taxes of 87,000 million yen (up 88%), and net income of 48,000 million yen (up 59%).

Table of Contents

Basis of presentation and significant accounting policies

In preparing the accompanying consolidated financial statements, ORIX Corporation (the Company) and its subsidiaries have followed with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, except as modified to account for stock splits in accordance with the usual practice in Japan.

The significant differences between U.S. and Japanese accounting policies and practices are as follows: Accounting for direct financing leases, accounting for the impairment of long-lived assets and long-lived assets to be disposed of, the use of the straight-line method of depreciation for operating lease equipment, deferral of life insurance policy acquisition costs and the calculation of policy liabilities, accounting for derivative instruments and hedging activities, accounting for goodwill and intangible assets resulting from business combinations, accounting for pension plans, and a reflection of the income tax effect on such adjustments. Segment information is prepared in accordance with FASB Statement No.131. The basis of presentation and significant accounting policies are as follows.

1. Consolidated subsidiaries

The accompanying consolidated financial statements include the accounts of the Company, 113 domestic subsidiaries and 85 foreign subsidiaries (all 198 subsidiaries). Major subsidiaries are ORIX Auto Leasing Corporation, ORIX USA Corporation and others.

2. Affiliates accounted for by the equity method

Investment in 47 domestic affiliates and 25 foreign affiliates (all 72 affiliates) are accounted for by using equity method. Major affiliates are The Fuji Fire and Marine Insurance Company Limited, Stockton Holdings Limited and others.

3. The date of subsidiaries fiscal closing

Certain subsidiaries have a year-end that differs from that of the Company. However, these subsidiaries close their books and make necessary adjustments for consolidation purposes as of the Company's fiscal year end.

4. Accounting policies

(1) Use of estimates

The preparation of the consolidated financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

(2) Recognition of revenues

Direct financing leases The excess of aggregate lease rentals plus the estimated unguaranteed residual value over the cost of the leased equipment constitutes the unearned lease income to be taken into income over the lease term using the interest method. Certain direct lease origination costs are being deferred and amortized over the lease term as a yield adjustment.

Table of Contents

Operating leases Operating lease assets are recorded at cost and are depreciated over their estimated useful lives mainly on a straight-line basis.

Insurance premium and expenses Premium income from life insurance policies are recognized as earned premiums when due. Life insurance benefits are recorded as expenses when they are incurred. Policy liabilities for future policy benefits are established for by the net level premium method, based on actuarial estimates of the amount of future policyholder benefits. Certain costs associated with writing insurance are deferred and amortized over the respective policy periods in proportion to anticipated premium revenue.

(3) Investment in securities

Trading securities are reported at fair value with unrealized gains and losses included in income. Available-for-sale securities are reported at fair value, and unrealized gains or losses are recorded through accumulated other comprehensive income (loss), net of applicable income taxes. However, the Company and its subsidiaries recognize losses related to securities for which the market price has been below the acquisition cost and not considered temporary in nature. Held-to-maturity securities are recorded at amortized cost.

(4) Impairment of long-lived assets

Long-lived assets and certain identifiable intangibles to be held and used by the Company and its subsidiaries are reviewed for impairment, whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate that the carrying amount of the assets may not be recoverable. When the sum of undiscounted future cash flows expected to be generated by the assets is less than the carrying amount of the assets, impairment losses are recognized based on the fair value of the assets.

(5) Allowance for doubtful receivables on direct financing leases and possible loan losses

The allowance for doubtful receivables on direct financing leases and possible loan losses is maintained at a level which, in the judgment of management, is adequate to provide for potential losses on lease and loan portfolios that can be reasonably anticipated.

(6) Prepaid benefit cost (Accrued benefit liability)

The Company and its subsidiaries follow FASB Statement No.87 (Employer s Accounting for Pensions).

(7) Significant foreign currencies translation

The Company and its subsidiaries maintain their accounting records in their functional currency. Transactions in foreign currencies are recorded in the entity s functional currency based on the prevailing exchange rates on the transaction date. The financial statements of foreign subsidiaries and affiliates are translated into Japanese yen by applying the exchange rates in effect at the end of each fiscal year to all assets and liabilities. Income and expenses are translated at the average rates of exchange prevailing during the fiscal year.

(8) Hedge accounting

The Company and its subsidiaries follow FASB Statement No.133 (Accounting for Derivative Instruments and Hedging Activities), as amended by FASB Statement No.138 (Accounting for Certain Derivative Instruments and Certain Hedging Activities an amendment of FASB Statement No.133). All derivatives are recorded on the balance sheet at fair value.

Table of Contents

(9) Income taxes

Deferred tax assets or liabilities are computed based on the difference between the financial statement and income tax bases of assets and liabilities using the enacted marginal tax rate. Deferred income tax expenses or credits are based on the changes in the asset or liability from period to period. Deferred income tax assets have been recognized on the net operating loss carry forwards of certain subsidiaries.

5. Cash and cash equivalents in the accompanying consolidated statements of cash flows

Cash and cash equivalents include cash on hand, deposits placed with banks and short-term highly liquid investments with original maturities of three months or less.

6. Other notes to consolidated financial statements

In July 2002, the Company acquired a 90% interest in Nittetsu Lease Co., Ltd. (Nittetsu) for JPY5,002 million (US$42 million). Table of ContentsDerivative Financial Instruments

The Company and its subsidiaries are parties to derivative financial instruments that they use in the normal course of business to reduce exposure to fluctuations in interest and foreign currency rates.

(a) Cash flow hedges

The Company and its subsidiaries designate interest rate swap agreements as cash flow hedges for variability of cash flows originated from floating rate borrowings.

(b) Fair value hedges

The Company and its subsidiaries use financial instruments designated as fair value hedges to hedge their exposure to interest rate risk and foreign currency exchange risk. The Company and its subsidiaries designate foreign currency swap agreements and foreign exchange forward contracts to minimize foreign currency exposures on operating assets including lease receivables, loan receivables and borrowings. One subsidiary hedges a portion of the interest rate exposure of the fair values of certain asset-backed securities using sales of future contracts and forward contracts on treasury securities. The Company's subsidiaries, which issued medium-term notes, use interest rate swap contracts to hedge interest rate exposure of the fair values of these medium-term notes. In case that medium-term notes were denominated in other than the subsidiaries' local currency, foreign currency swap agreements are used to hedge foreign exchange rate exposure.

(c) Hedges of net investment in foreign operations

The Company uses foreign exchange forward contracts, foreign currency swap agreements and borrowings denominated in the subsidiaries' local currencies to hedge the foreign currency exposure of the net investment in foreign subsidiaries.

(d) Trading and other derivatives

Certain of the Company's subsidiaries engage in trading activities with various future contracts. For risk management purposes, the Company and certain subsidiaries entered into interest rate swap agreements, caps and collars, which do not qualify for hedge accounting under FASB Statement No. 133. In accordance with FASB Statement No. 133, conversion options were bifurcated from the Company and certain subsidiaries convertible bonds, and are recorded as stand-alone derivative contracts. At March 31, 2003 and March 31, 2002, the total face amount was JPY8,200 million (US$68 million) and JPY127,572 million, respectively and the fair value of conversion option was JPY187 million (US$2 million) and JPY2,195 million, respectively.

The following table provides notional amount, carrying amount and estimated fair value information about trading and other derivative instruments as of March 31, 2003 and 2002.
