Edgar Filing: SHINHAN FINANCIAL GROUP CO LTD - Form CB

actually issued for the share swap.

* The maximum possible number of common shares to be issued (11,868,549) has been calculated by multiplying (i) the share exchange rate for the common and preferred shares, as the case may be, and (ii) the sum of (A) the number of shares issued by Good Morning Shinhan Securities and held by shareholders other than Shinhan Financial Group (common stock: 61,491,966 [and] preferred stock: 3,823,314) and (B) the number of shares subject to stock options granted by Good Morning Shinhan Securities that have been exercised on or before the date immediately preceding the swap date (8,900,025 of common shares)

* The maximum possible number of shares to be issued calculated as described above is 2.92% of the total number of issued and outstanding shares of Shinhan Financial Group, and therefore, the proposed share swap meets the requirements for a small-sized share swap under the Korean Commercial Code.

* The number of common shares that are to be actually issued will be within the maximum possible number of shares that will be issued for the share swap and will be calculated by multiplying the applicable exchange rate set forth in Paragraph E and the number of common and preferred shares of Good Morning Shinhan Securities held by shareholders other than Shinhan Financial Group as of the due date for the submission of the share certificates for the share swap (December 22, 2004) (Such number of actual shares to be issued will be determined pursuant to the result of the tender offer to be executed by Shinhan Financial Group before the share swap for the preferred stock of Good Morning Shinhan Securities and the number of stock options granted by Good Morning Shinhan Securities that have been exercised by the due date for the submission of share certificates).

II. DETAILS OF BUSINESS

1. OUTLINE OF BUSINESS

A. Status of the Industry

** The Trend toward Expansions and Business Cross-overs, and the Existence of Pressure for the Restructuring in the Finance Industry

Expansions of financial institutions through alliances, and business crossovers resulting from a loosening of regulations by the government are the major trend in the global financial market. In Korea, as the barriers between the different business areas are rapidly being dismantled in the financial industry, forming financial groups or expansion coupled with the progression towards crossing over has become the major trend in the Korean finance industry. Following the introduction of bankassurance last year, providing one-stop financial services, which provide all major financial services including banking, securities, investment, and insurance through a single distribution channel, is emerging as a major task.

In the meantime, the restructuring of the finance sector which has continued since the IMF crisis, is changing from a government-initiated restructuring aimed at resolving past deficiencies to the current private-initiated restructuring aimed at increasing the competitiveness of Korean financial institutions, and this trend is expected to remain a key issue in the changing finance industry of Korea. Accordingly, a small number of large financial institutions, including enlarged financial institutions centered around banking and financial groups in the form of holding companies, will fiercely compete for a leading position in the market based on an enlarged customer base and relevant channels. Small or medium sized financial institutions will struggle to survive through differentiation and by addressing a niche market. However, in cases where even this proves impossible, in losing its competitiveness, the small or medium institutions will become subject to merger during the restructuring process.

** Incorporation of a Global Competition System within the Financial Market upon Accelerated Entry of Foreign Funds into the Korean Financial Market

In the future, the domestic finance industry will become fully incorporated into the global competition system. Foreign financial institutions have already accelerated their inroads into the Korean financial market, and the type of investments are clearly changing from past short-term investments aimed at simple capital gains to acquiring managerial control for the purpose of making mid to long-term advancements into the financial market.

Under these circumstances, competition with leading foreign financial institutions is inevitable in the Korean market, and it is imperative to the long-term survival and growth of domestic financial institutions to secure competitiveness at a world class level and establish world class standards.

From a wider perspective, the rapid growth of the Chinese economy is another threat to our finance industry, while being recognized as a chance for infinite growth. Many global financial institutions have already begun full-scale advancements into the Chinese market. The potential of the Korean financial market is expected to attract considerable attention as a bridgehead to the Chinese market and as a banking hub of Northeast Asia.

** Diversification of Financial Needs and Offering Customized Financial Services

Despite the delayed recovery rate of the economy resulting from the decrease in domestic demand, it appears that the domestic financial industry has steadily established a foundation for growth, both in quantity and quality. This is because, while floating liquidity on the market fails to find appropriate investment outlets due to long-term low interest rates and remains around the financial sector, a financial deepening is forecast pursuant to an increase in financial assets during the process of economic growth. In particular, the improvement of services and an increase of hybrid financial products offered by each financial institution in response to the changing quality of financial demands during the progressing financial deepening, together with the convergence trend of different service fields during the process of IT-based industrial development, are expected to become further accelerated.

As for individual customers, pursuant to the changes in lifestyle patterns resulting from the development of an aging society, a gentrification of consumption, and an increase in the high-income HNWI class, the growth of the PB market is likely to be further accelerated. The wealth-management service has made rapid growth as a new area in the finance industry, and as such, the importance of customized service which responds to the nature of the demands of each class is increasing. In addition, the development of hybrid stores and hybrid financial products in line with the cross-over tendency of the finance industry is also expected to be accelerated. Also, in the case of corporate customers, a reduction in the indirect financial market which relies on bank loans, and an enlargement of the direct financial market are expected to be the established trend, and the polarization of the supply and demand of funds according to the size and credibility of corporations will be more clearly defined.

** Banking Business

Despite the fact that the domestic economy is gradually recovering based on the recovery of the world economy and the increase in exports, it has been predicted that the domestic financial market will focus on management for internal interest, which emphasizes risk management rather than external growth because of a serious decrease in domestic consumption, excessive household debts, and individual credit problems which have become extended long-term.

It seems the tendency towards the short term instability of market funds will be difficult to solve for a while due to basic conditions of prolonged low interest rates and delayed economic recovery, and thus, relying on a simple earnings-based structure centered on deposit-loan margins in order to secure revenue will hit a limit. Therefore, each bank is likely to make more efforts to develop new revenue sources such as revenue from fees and cross-selling of financial products in order to secure a proper rate of returns from asset management.

From the viewpoint of the structure of the industry, there is always the possibility for additional market reorganization including mergers and acquisitions during the process of expansion and of the formation of bank-centered holding companies. In particular, it is anticipated that foreign banks' advances in the Korean market will gradually become a reality through the process of the withdrawal of existing foreign funds, domestic commercial banks will compete for leading positions through expansion measures, a movement towards differentiation will be pervasive among small to medium sized banks, and the restructuring of the financial sector will enter the final phase.

** Securities/Investment Trust Business

In the securities/investment trust industry, where the restructuring has been relatively late compared to the banking sector, it is expected that the restructuring will start in earnest this year. Restructuring of the investment trust industry is under way in earnest with overseas sales of ailing companies surfacing, and in the securities industry where the pricing competition has already hit its limit with the increase in cyber securities transactions, the industry is centering around the large security companies in the struggle for control of the industry. Under these conditions, small and medium companies that fail to find a model for independent survival will inevitably be driven out of the market. Accordingly, large security companies will actively seek changes in the revenue model from simple brokering services to asset management services represented by wrap accounts and corporate banking services, and small to medium sized companies, with the exception of a small number of online security companies which lead discount brokering, face a limit in continually generating revenue and will inevitably be subject to mergers and acquisitions in the process of restructuring.

** Credit Cards

As the household debt and individual credit problems that had become serious since the latter half of the year 2002 have not yet been solved, for the time being, it does not seem that the credit card industry will be able to rely on rapid growth-type recovery as in the past. This is because the improvement and maintenance of asset quality, including the default rate, will be the key issue. However, while the position of specialized credit card companies that were previously in the leading position in the market is being weakened, bank credit card companies are expected to do well. At the same time, the latecomers who are relatively free from insolvency problems will seek to expand their market share through aggressive marketing. However, because of the tightening of regulations by the government and delay in the economic recovery rate due to the decrease in domestic consumption, it is unlikely that the card market will easily be normalized.

It follows that the credit card industry is likely to focus its efforts on strategic alliances with other industries such as telecommunications rather than focusing on competing in quantity through expanding the number of customers and credit sales as it did in the past, in order to cope with the changing credit card industry.

B. Status of the Company

(1) General Condition of Operations and Classification of Business Sectors

(A) General Condition of Operations

** There were many changes in the financial sector in 2001, including the emergence of large banks through mergers between banks and the launch of state-initiated financial holding companies. Good Morning Shinhan Securities was launched upon the merger between Shinhan Securities and Good Morning Securities.
- ** The credit card division of Shinhan Bank was spun off and officially established as an independent, wholly-owned subsidiary on June 4, 2002. Shinhan Credit Information Co., Ltd was incorporated on July 8, 2002 as to engage in the business of debt collection services and credit research.
- ** Shinhan Financial Group sold Good Morning Investment Trust Management Co. to Prudential Corporation Holdings to resolve the redundant investment in the investment trust management sector, and in order to enhance the sales power, signed an agreement with BNP Paribas Asset Management Group for an alliance in the investment trust management sector and the sale of 50% equity in the Shinhan Investment Trust Management Co., Ltd., which has been renamed to Shinhan BNP Paribas ITMC.
- ** On October 1, 2002, SH&C Life Insurance was incorporated as a result of the ongoing efforts for a joint venture in the bankassurance industry.
- ** On June 9, 2003, Shinhan Financial Group sold 49% equity shares of Shinhan Credit Information to Loan Star Fund, and signed an alliance agreement for the debt collection operations, but on April 29, 2004 it decided to repurchase 49% of equity in Shinhan Credit Information (24,000 shares) held by Lone Star again. After repurchase, the equity ratio held by Shinhan Financial Group was changed into 100%.
- ** Shinhan Financial Group acquired 80.04% equity ownership (543,570,144 shares) of Chohung Bank from the Korea Deposit Insurance Corporation on August 18 and 19, 2003, and the inclusion of Chohung Bank as a Shinhan Financial Group subsidiary was officially granted on September 5, 2003. Thereafter, Shinhan Financial Group resolved the share swap and tender offer in order to make Chohung Bank its wholly-owned subsidiary at its board of directors' meeting held on April 12, 2004, and during the period from April 26, 2004 until May 17, 2004, Shinhan Financial Group implemented tender offer with respect to 27,109,657 shares of common stock of CHB at the price of 3,500 Won per share. On June 22, 2004, Shinhan Financial Group implemented share swap at the rate of 0.1354 share per one common share of Chohung Bank, and included Chohung Bank as its wholly-owned subsidiary.

- ** Upon completion of its incorporation of the banks, security, credit card, investment trust, capital and insurance companies as its subsidiaries, the Shinhan Financial Group has become systemized as a universal financial group covering all financial sectors, and has pursued cross sales including funds and FNA security savings deposit among its subsidiaries, and is concentrating its efforts on the development of hybrid or tie-in-sale products between insurance and credit cards. In addition, as a consolidated group database has been completed, database-marketing activities are being conducted at the group level.

- ** In addition, Shinhan Financial Group is informing customers and shareholders of our new transformation process being endeavored under the holding company system through IR activities for investors and group advertising. Internally, the company is pursuing workshops for group officers and executives, synergy forums, survival summit and other various programs in order to expand understanding of and sympathy towards the group vision and strategy direction, and is deriving various tasks to generate synergy which is being pursued through close consultation among member companies.
- ** Shinhan Financial Group was registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission on September 16, 2003 in an attempt to enhance the corporate governance and managerial transparency, and the American Depositary Shares were listed on the New York Stock Exchange on the same day.
- ** Especially in 2004, Shinhan Financial Group will strive to realistically construct One-Bank structure through the stable and efficient operation of its two banks: Chohung Bank, which has been incorporated as a new subsidiary, and Shinhan Bank, while securing the basis for the emergence of a New-Bank, in which will be completely new in terms of its quality.
- ** Furthermore, Shinhan Financial Group will strengthen its synergistic capabilities by extending the scope of its business and target markets based on the wide expansion of its customer base and channels with the inclusion of Chohung

Bank, and construct a new performance-centered and market-oriented corporate culture, whereby securing its position as a leader in the Korean financial industry. ### 2. BASIS OF FINANCIAL STATEMENTS PRESENTATION AND SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

A. Basis of financial statements presentation

The Company prepared the financial statements in accordance with the generally accepted accounting principles in the Republic of Korea ("Korean GAAP") and the accounting rules applicable to financial holding companies of Korea, and the significant accounting policies are summarized below.

(1) Allowance for loan losses

Allowance for loan losses is provided to cover estimated losses on loan receivables, such as loans and privately-placed bonds, based on past experience of collection and analysis of the collectibility of individual outstanding loans.

(2) Investments in securities

Securities should be classified into one of the three categories of held-to-maturity, available-for-sale, or trading securities at the time of acquisition and such determination should be reassessed at each balance sheet date.

Held-to-maturity securities are those with fixed and determinable payments and fixed maturity that the Company has the positive intent and ability to hold to maturity. Securities that are bought and held principally for the purpose of selling them in the near term (thus held for only a short period of time) are classified as trading securities. Trading generally reflects active and frequent buying and selling, and trading securities are generally used to generate profit on short-term differences in price. Investments not classified as either held-to-maturity or trading securities are classified as available-for-sale securities.

Marketable securities are initially stated at cost plus incidental expenses with the individual moving average method. Held-to-maturity securities are stated at amortized cost, and trading securities and available-for-sale securities are carried at fair value. Of available-for-sale securities, investments in equity that do not have readily determinable fair values are stated at cost. Unrealized holding gains and losses on valuation of trading securities are included in earnings, and unrealized holding gains and losses on valuation of available-for-sale securities are included in capital adjustments. Accumulated capital adjustment of securities is charged to current operations in lump-sum at the time of disposal or impairment recognition.

Marketable securities are at the quoted market prices as of the period end. Non-marketable debt securities are recorded at the fair values derived from the discounted cash flows by using an interest rate deemed to approximate the market interest rate. The market interest rate is determined by the issuers' credit rate announced by the accredited credit rating agencies in Korea.

(3) Investment securities under the equity method

Equity securities in companies over which the Company has significant management control are stated at an amount as determined using the equity method.

Under the equity method, the Company's initial investment is recorded at cost plus incidental expenses with the individual moving average method, and the resulting figure is deemed the balance sheet value. If any difference between the book value and the balance sheet value of investments in securities under the equity method is (i) due to the investor's share in net income or net loss of investee, such amount is reflected as current operations of the investor under the account title of valuation gain using the equity method; (ii) due to the changes in the retained earnings of the investee, such amount is reflected as the retained earnings of the investor; or (iii) due to changes in the capital surplus or other capital adjustments of the investee, such amount is reflected as changes in capital adjustments of the investor under the account title of valuation gains on investment securities accounted for by the equity method.

For the equity method, the Company applies the same criteria for allowances for loan losses with respect to loan receivables from its affiliated companies to the extent that the degree of risk involved and the borrower of the loan receivables are identical. Accordingly, additional allowances provided for the year ended December 31, 2003 for Chohung and Jeju Bank amount to KRW32,390 million and KRW1,143 million, respectively, by the equity method.

Of investment elimination difference arising from valuation gain using the equity method, the difference stemming from the book value and fair value is amortized or reversed in accordance with the accounting method of the investee. Any excess is generally recorded as goodwill (negative goodwill). Goodwill (negative goodwill) is amortized over a reasonable period, generally less than 20 years. Provided, that if the investee using the equity method is a subsidiary, the difference stemming from the acquisition value arising from additional acquisition of subsidiary's securities and the additional securities acquisition portion out of subsidiary's net assets is recorded as valuation gain (loss) on investment securities accounted for by the equity method.

(4) Tangible assets

Tangible assets are initially stated at cost plus incidental expenses. Depreciation is computed over 5 years using the declining-balance method (straight-line method for leasehold improvements) based on the estimated useful lives of the assets. Expenditures that result in the enhancement of the value or the extension of the useful lives of the facilities involved are capitalized as additions to tangible assets, and routine maintenance and repairs are expensed as incurred.

(5) Intangible assets

Intangible assets are stated at cost plus incidental expenses, less amortization computed using the straight-line method over 5 years.

(6) Income taxes

Income tax on the earnings or loss for the year comprises current and deferred tax. The difference between the amount currently payable for the period and the income tax expense is accounted for as deferred income tax assets or liabilities and offset against income tax assets and liabilities in future periods. The amount of deferred tax provided is based on the expected manner of realization or settlement of the carrying amount of assets and liabilities, using tax rates enacted or substantially enacted at the balance sheet date. Changes in net tax effects resulting from changes in tax rates are recognized in earnings for the year in which the relevant tax rates are enacted.

(7) Discounts on debentures

Discounts on debentures issued, which represent the difference between the face value of debentures issued and the issuance price of debentures (the value of debentures less the debenture issuance fees and other direct costs associated with the issuance of debentures) are reflected in the accompanying balance sheets as a deduction from the face value of debentures, and are amortized on the effective interest method over the life of the debentures. The amount amortized is included in interest expense.

(8) Retirement and severance benefits

Employees who have been with the Company for more than one year are entitled to lump-sum payments based on current rates of pay and length of service when they leave the Company. The Company's estimated liability under the plan which would be payable if all employees left on the balance sheet date is accrued in the accompanying non-consolidated balance sheets. A portion of the liability is covered by an employees' severance pay insurance where the employees have a vested interest in the deposit with the insurance company. The deposit for severance benefit insurance is, therefore, reflected in the accompanying balance sheets as a deduction from the liability for retirement and severance benefits.

(9) Translation of foreign currency denominated assets and liabilities

Non-monetary assets and liabilities denominated in foreign

Edgar Filing: SHINHAN FINANCIAL GROUP CO LTD - Form CB

currencies are translated into Korean Won based on the prevailing exchange rate effective on the acquisition or assumption date of such assets or liabilities. On the other hand, monetary assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are translated into Korean Won at KRW1,152.50 and KRW1,197.80 to US$1, the base exchange rate announced by Seoul Money Brokerage Services Limited on the balance sheet date. The resulting gains (losses) are recognized in current operations.

(10) Stock options

The stock option program allows the Company's employees to acquire shares of the Company or to be compensated for the market price difference. In case of stock grant type, the Company values stock options based upon an option pricing model under the fair value method and recognizes this value as an expense and a capital adjustment (stock option) over the period in which the options vest. When the Company issues new shares upon employees' exercise of stock options, difference between the sum of the stock options and the exercise price thereof and the face value of new shares is accounted for as subscription premium paid for the shares. On the other hand, when the Company delivers treasury shares, difference between the sum of the stock options and the exercise price thereof and the book value of treasury stocks is accounted for as loss on disposition of treasury stocks. In case of price compensation type, the Company recognizes the compensation expense as an expense and a liability (long-term outstanding expenses) over the period in which the options vest.

In case officers and employees fail to perform their obligations due to death, retirement or resignation during the period in which the options vest, the stock options granted to such officers and employees become null and void. In such a case, the relevant amounts are reduced from capital adjustments (stock options) or long-term outstanding expenses recorded in the balance sheet in respect of stock options, and the corresponding amounts are deducted from compensation expenses. In case stock options of stock grant type are not exercised after the period in which the options vest and become null and void, the relevant amounts are reduced from capital adjustments, and the corresponding amounts are transferred to other capital surplus.

(11) Contingent liabilities

Contingent losses are generally recognized as a liability when probable and reasonably estimable as of the balance sheet date.

(12) Use of estimates

The preparation of financial statements in accordance with the Korean GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts reported in the financial statements and related notes to financial statements in respect of the amounts of assets and liabilities,

Edgar Filing: SHINHAN FINANCIAL GROUP CO LTD - Form CB

disclosure of contingent liabilities, estimates of revenues and expenses. The foregoing applies to the valuation of the book value of tangible assets, accounts receivable, inventories, deferred income tax assets or liabilities, and derivatives. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

(13) Adoption of new accounting standard

The Company adopted Statements of Korea Accounting Standards ("SKAS") Nos. 10, 12 and 13, effective from the first fiscal year beginning after December 31, 2003, and early adopted SKAS No. 15, effective from the first fiscal year beginning after December 31, 2004, to prepare this semi-annual financial statements. The annual and semi-annual financial statements for the prior FY, marked comparatively with this semi-annual financial statement due to the application of SKAS No. 15, was reclassified pursuant to the accounting titles of this semi-annual financial statement.

Note) As a result of early application of SKAS No. 6, the amount of liabilities in the financial statements of the first fiscal year decreased by KRW 150,812 million and stockholders' equity increased by KRW 150,812 million, both of which were described for reference purposes.

B. Basis of financial statements presentation and summary of significant accounting policies

The Company and the consolidated subsidiaries (collectively referred to as the "Company") prepared the accompanying consolidated financial statements in accordance with the generally accepted accounting principles in the Republic of Korea ("Korean GAAP"), the consolidated financial statements accounting rules and the business-specific accounting rules, such as the banking business accounting rules, the securities business accounting rules, the securities investment trust business accounting rules, the lease accounting rules and the insurance business accounting rules. The Company adopted Statements of Korea Accounting Standards (SKAS) No. 2 through No. 9, effective from the first fiscal year beginning after December 31, 2002, while SKAS No. 6, "Events Occurring after the Balance Sheet Date", has been adopted since the year ended December 31, 2002 with encouraged earlier application. Significant accounting policies adopted by the Company in the preparation for the consolidated financial statements for the current year are consistent with those applied in the year-end consolidated financial statements ended December 31, 2002, except for the application of the aforesaid SKAS.

(1) Investments in securities

Securities should be classified into one of the three categories of held-to-maturity, available-for-sale, or trading securities at the time of acquisition and such determination should be reassessed at each balance sheet date.

Held-to-maturity securities are those with fixed and determinable payments and fixed maturity that the Company has the positive intent and ability to hold to maturity. Securities that are bought and held principally for the purpose of selling them in the near term (thus held for only a short period of time) are classified as trading securities. Trading generally reflects active and frequent buying and selling, and trading securities are generally used to generate profit on short-term differences in price. Investments not classified as either held-to-maturity or trading securities are classified as available-for-sale securities.

Marketable securities are initially stated at cost plus incidental expenses with the individual moving average method.

Edgar Filing: SHINHAN FINANCIAL GROUP CO LTD - Form CB

Held-to-maturity securities are stated at amortized cost, and trading securities and available-for-sale securities are carried at fair value. Of available-for-sale securities, investments in equity that do not have readily determinable fair values are stated at cost. Unrealized holding gains and losses on valuation of trading securities are included in earnings, and unrealized holding gains and losses on valuation of available-for-sale securities are included in capital adjustments. Accumulated capital adjustment of securities is charged to current operations in lump-sum at the time of disposal or impairment recognition.

Marketable securities are at the quoted market prices as of the period end. Non-marketable debt securities are recorded at the fair values derived from the discounted cash flows by using an interest rate deemed to approximate the market interest rate. The market interest rate is determined by the issuers' credit rate announced by the accredited credit rating agencies in Korea. Money market funds are recorded at the fair value determined by the investment management companies.

(2) Investment securities under the equity method

Equity securities in companies over which the Company has significant management control are stated at an amount as determined using the equity method.

Under the equity method of accounting, changes in the investor's initial investment arising from changes in the net asset of the investee is reflected in the investor's investment in securities. Based on the sources of changes, changes in the investor's investments in securities are reflected as valuation gain (loss) using the equity method (current operations of the investor), the retained earnings of the investor, or valuation gains on investment securities accounted for by the equity method (capital adjustments of the investor). However, the Company does not record its share of losses of affiliate companies when such losses would make the Company's investment in such entity less than zero. Of investment elimination difference arising from valuation gain under the equity method, the difference stemming from the book value and fair value is amortized or reversed in accordance with the accounting method of the investee for the relevant asset. Any excess is generally recorded as goodwill (negative goodwill). Goodwill (negative goodwill) is amortized over a reasonable period, generally less than 20 years.

In case of translating financial statements denominated in foreign currencies, where the balances are determined by the equity method, assets and liabilities are translated at current rate as of the balance sheet date and capital accounts at historical rate. The investor's share in differences between capital accounts translated at historical rate and assets translated at current rate as of the balance sheet date less liabilities translated at current rate as of the balance sheet date is accounted for as overseas operation translation credit (debit), a component of capital adjustments in the stockholder's equity.

(3) Allowance for loan losses

Edgar Filing: SHINHAN FINANCIAL GROUP CO LTD - Form CB

The Company establishes the credit risk-rating model, which considers the borrowers' capacity to repay and credit risk ("Forward Looking Criteria: FLC") in classifying its corporate loans and making provisions for loan losses, while household loans and credit card loans are classified by considering current financial status including delinquency period, bankruptcies and collaterals value.

(4) Troubled loans restructuring

Restructured loans which are related to companies involved in bankruptcy proceedings, composition proceedings or workout programs with creditors are stated at present value of expected future cash flows, and the difference between carrying amount and the present value of expected future cash flows is presented as a present value discount, and amortized and credited to operations as interest income using the effective interest rate method.

In addition, an allowance for the present value on restructured loans is made depending on the credit conditions of borrowers.

(5) Tangible assets

Tangible assets are initially stated at cost plus incidental expenses. Expenditures that result in the enhancement of the value or the extension of the useful lives of the facilities involved are capitalized as additions to tangible assets, and routine maintenance and repairs are expensed as incurred.

Depreciation is computed over 5 years using the declining-balance method (straight-line method for buildings and leasehold improvements) based on the estimated useful lives of the assets.

(6) Intangible assets

Intangible assets are stated at cost plus incidental expenses, less amortization computed using the straight-line method over useful lives of related intangible assets.

(7) Bonds under resale or repurchase agreements

Bonds purchased under resale agreements are recorded as loans and bonds sold under repurchase agreements are recorded as borrowings. When the Company purchases or sells securities under resale or repurchase agreements, the amount calculated by applying the conditional selling interest rate for each period is recorded as interest on bonds purchased (sold) under resale or repurchase agreements.

(8) Discounts on debentures

Discounts on debentures issued, which represent the difference between the face value of debentures issued and the issuance price of debentures (the value of debentures less the debenture issuance fees and other direct costs associated with the issuance of debentures) are reflected in the accompanying balance sheets as a deduction from the face value of debentures, and are amortized on the effective interest method over the life of the debentures. The amount amortized is included in interest expense.

(9) Retirement and severance benefits

In accordance with the Regulation on Severance Payment to Officers and Employees, the Company's estimated liability under the severance payment plan which would be payable if all employees left on the balance sheet date is accrued in the accompanying balance sheets. Under the National Pension Scheme of Korea, the Company transferred a certain portion of retirement allowances of employees to the National Pension Fund. The amount transferred will reduce the retirement and severance benefit amount to be payable to the employees when they leave the Company and is accordingly reflected in the accompanying financial statements as a reduction from the retirement and severance benefit liability. The Company obtains and maintains employees' severance pay insurance where the employees have a vested interest in the deposit with the insurance company. The deposit for severance benefit insurance is, therefore, reflected in the accompanying balance sheets as a deduction from the liability for retirement and severance benefits.

(10) Allowance for guarantees and acceptances

The Company provides an allowance for losses on guarantees and acceptances, which are classified as substandard, doubtful and estimated loss using the same method as that used to provide for losses on its corporate loans.

(11) Income taxes

Income tax on the earnings or loss for the year comprises current and deferred tax. The difference between the amount currently payable for the period and the income tax expense is accounted for as deferred income tax assets or liabilities and offset against income tax assets and liabilities in future periods. The amount of deferred tax provided is based on the expected manner of realization or settlement of the carrying amount of assets and liabilities, using tax rates enacted or substantially enacted at the balance sheet date. Changes in net tax effects resulting from changes in tax rates are recognized in earnings for the year in which the relevant tax rates are enacted.

(12) Translation of foreign currency denominated assets and liabilities

Assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are translated into Korean Won at KRW1,197.80 and KRW1,200.40 to US$1, the base exchange rate announced by Seoul Money Brokerage Services Limited on the balance sheet date, and the resulting gains (losses) are recognized in current operations. However, the SWAP funds provided by the Bank of Korea under the repurchase agreement are translated at the agreed exchange rate. In addition, operating leases that (i) were contracted before March 31, 1998, (ii) the funds used in purchasing the operating lease assets are denominated in foreign currencies, (iii) the base lease expense or the adjusted lease expense is denominated in foreign currencies and, thus, the exchange rate risk is hedged, the resulting gains (losses) are reflected as translation gains (losses) related to operating leases, which is amortized or reversed when the Company recognizes the above lease expense as earnings. In addition, financial statements of overseas branches are also translated into Korean Won at the above base rates on the balance sheet dates.

-98-

(13) Derivatives

Derivative instruments are presented as assets or liabilities valued principally at the fair value of rights or obligations associated with the derivative contracts. The unrealized gain or loss from derivative transactions is recognized in current operations.

However, for derivative instruments for the purpose of hedging the exposure to the variability of cash flows of a forecasted transaction, the hedge-effective portion of the derivative's gain or loss is deferred as a capital adjustment, a component of stockholder's equity. The ineffective portion of the gain or loss is charged or credited to current results of operations.

(14) Stock options

The stock option program allows the Company's employees to acquire shares of the Company or to be compensated for the market price difference. In case of stock grant type, the Company values stock options based upon an option pricing model under the fair value method and recognizes this value as an expense and a capital adjustment (stock option) over the period in which the options vest. When the Company issues new shares upon employees' exercise of stock options, the difference between the sum of the exercise price of the stock options and the sum of face value of new shares is accounted for as subscription premium paid for the shares. On the other hand, when the Company delivers treasury shares, the difference between the sum of the exercise price of the stock options and the sum of the book value of treasury stocks is accounted for as loss on disposition of treasury stocks. In case of price compensation type, the Company recognizes the compensation expense as an expense and a liability (long-term outstanding expenses) over the period in which the options vest.

In case officers and employees fail to perform their obligations due to death, retirement or resignation during the period in which the options vest, the stock options granted to such officers and employees become null and void. In such a case, the relevant amounts are reduced from capital adjustments (stock options) or long-term outstanding expenses recorded in the balance sheet in respect of stock options, and the corresponding amounts are deducted from compensation expenses. In case stock options of stock grant type are not exercised after the period in which the options vest and become null and void, the relevant amounts are reduced from capital adjustments, and the corresponding amounts are transferred to other capital surplus.

(15) Accounting for leases and rentals

The Company accounts for and classifies its lease transactions as either the operating or capital lease, depending on the terms of the lease under the Korean Lease Accounting Standards.

If a lease is substantially non-cancelable and meets one or more of the criteria listed below, the present value of future minimum lease payments is reflected as an obligation under capital lease. Otherwise, it is classified as an operating lease with lease payments expensed as incurred.

- o Ownership of the leased property shall be transferred to the lessee at the end of the lease term without additional payment or for a contract price.
- o The lease has a bargain purchase option.
- o The lease term is equal to 75% or more of the estimated economic useful life of the leased property in respect of lease transactions that were contracted before January 1, 1998.
- o The present value at the beginning of the lease term of the minimum lease payments equals or exceeds 90% of the fair value of the leased property.

In case of capital leases, the portion originated from principal is accounted for as collections of outstanding receivables and the remaining interest income is accounted for as revenue in the current period. Revenue from operating leases is recognized on a straight-line basis over the lease term.

All costs and charges incurred in connection with acquiring lease assets by inception date of the lease are recorded as advance payments on operating lease assets or capital lease receivables.

Additionally, depreciation of assets for operating leases is computed using the straight-line method over the economic useful lives (or lease terms if contracted before March 31, 1998).

Edgar Filing: SHINHAN FINANCIAL GROUP CO LTD - Form CB

(16) Interest income recognition

The Company recognizes the interest income earned on loan receivables and other loans on an accrual basis. For the interest income on loans having overdue interest and principal, dishonored bills and checks and all credits to the customers that are given a grace period or a reduction or exemption of interest payments or listed as watch list clients, the Company discontinues the recognition of interest accrual.

-100-

(17) Contingent liabilities

Contingent losses are generally recognized as a liability when probable and reasonably estimable as of the balance sheet date.

(18) Use of estimates

The preparation of financial statements in accordance with the Korean GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts reported in the financial statements and related notes to financial statements in respect of the amounts of assets and liabilities, disclosure of contingent liabilities, estimates of revenues and expenses. The foregoing applies to the valuation of the book value of tangible assets, accounts receivable, inventories, deferred income tax assets or liabilities, and derivatives. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

(19) Reclassification of account titles

Certain accounts of prior year's non-consolidated financial statements were reclassified to conform to the current year's presentation. These reclassifications did not result in any material change to reported net earnings or stockholders' equity.
