EXHIBIT 1

SGL Carbon Continues Portfolio Optimization; Italian Electrical Contacts Business Sold

WIESBADEN, Germany--(BUSINESS WIRE)--April 16, 2003--The SGL Carbon Group has sold its Italian electrical contacts business in the past few days as part of the streamlining of its Graphite Specialties portfolio which started at the beginning of the year.

SGL Risomesa S.p.A., Milan, which manufactures sliding contacts for trains, trams and electric motors, has been taken over by the Schunk Group, based in Giessen, Germany. The Schunk Group is an international technology group active in a range of activities including carbon and graphite. The parties have agreed not to disclose the purchase price.

With the sale of this non-core business, which generates revenues of around EUR 5 million, SGL Carbon has basically withdrawn in this second step from the manufacture of electrical contacts. At the beginning of this year, the company sold its German and Czech activities in this area. Together, the divestments account for a revenue volume of around EUR 12 million. The sale represents another important step in SGL Carbon's plans to concentrate on high-tech applications in the Graphite Specialties business unit.
