Aer Lingus rejects Ryanair's cost cutting proposals - again

Ryanair regrets today's (5th June 09) rejection by the Aer Lingus Board of two AGM resolutions to reduce the bloated fees paid to the Aer Lingus Non-Executive Directors and Chairman (all of whom were appointed by the Irish Government and trade unions). This again proves that Aer Lingus and its Board are controlled by the Irish Government and the trade unions. This perhaps explains why Aer Lingus continues to lurch from crisis to crisis losing passengers, losing money, and burning through the cash that shareholders provided to Aer Lingus at its September 2006 IPO.

Ryanair's Stephen McNamara said:

"Under the current Board and Irish Government control, Aer Lingus shareholders have lost over €1 billion in the value of their shares which have plummeted from over €3 in Jan '07 to less than 60c in May '09. Aer Lingus has announced enormous losses in 2008 and has warned of significantly increased losses in 2009, and urgently needs to cut costs and lower fares if it is to survive and thrive. Cutting bloated Directors' fees (which totalled €730,000 in 2008) to the 2006 levels, is an appropriate place to start, but it seems that Colm Barrington and the Minister are more concerned about protecting these fat cat fees than they are about the future of Aer Lingus.

"Sadly today's rejection of Ryanair's cost cutting proposals leaves the Board of Aer Lingus and the Minister for Transport with no credibility when they begin talking to staff and other suppliers over the coming months about the cost cuts needed to restore Aer Lingus to profitability. For example, how can trade union boss David Begg, who received almost €5,000 per Board meeting in 2008 seriously ask low paid Aer Lingus workers to accept pay cuts when his snout and that of Colm Barrington are firmly wedged in the Aer Lingus fees trough?"

Ends.
