EXPLANATORY NOTE

Set forth below are slides and accompanying remarks presented and made on May 10, 2007 by William G. Harvey, Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer of Bowater, at the UBS 2007 Leveraged Finance Conference, which relate to the pending combination of Bowater and Abitibi-Consolidated.

Merger Announcement

On January 29, Bowater announced its agreement to combine with Abitibi-Consolidated Inc. in a merger of equals

Regulatory approvals are in process

US -
Department of Justice

Canada -
Competition Bureau

Investment Canada

Expect to close in the 3 rd
quarter 3

I'd like to also give you a status on Bowater's announced agreement to merge with Abitibi-Consolidated. In terms of the merger process, we have received a second request from the U.S. Department of Justice, as we expected and we are working to respond to this request for additional information. We are similarly working with the Competition Bureau to provide the information they need. We are pleased with the status of the deal and continue to expect closing in the 3rd quarter. We have filed an amended preliminary S-4 this week.

Merger Rationale

Creates stronger company better able to compete in global market

Better positioned to adapt to challenging newsprint market conditions

Significant value creation through US$250 million of annualized cost synergies

Increased cash flow, better growth platform and asset mix

Increased efficiencies, better product quality, new product innovation, logistical flexibility

Proven leadership team with a successful integration track record

Positioned for greater success than either company could have achieved on its own

4

The merger rationale was described in detail on our January announcement date.

I believe the merger offers significant benefits to our debt holders, shareholders, customers and other stakeholders.

The rationale is clear

Combining the two companies will create a company better positioned to compete in the global market.

The industry is facing significant challenges --

1. Customer needs are changing
2. Competition continues
3. Demand for newsprint is declining

Given these challenges, the benefits of combining the two companies are compelling. We will be able to generate efficiencies and compete more effectively in the global market.

Additionally, significant value will be created through the expected US$250 million of annualized cost synergies that we believe are very achievable.

Substantial Synergies

Cost synergies driven through scale and implementation of best practices

Expected annual run rate:

US$125 million by end of year 1

US$250 million by end of year 2

NPV of cost synergies is US$1.5 billion

Distribution

Procurement

growth

rate, net

of

US$125

million

one-time

costs

5

Let me take a minute on the synergies.

The US$250 million of synergies come from four main areas:

Production

sharing
best practices in the new,
bigger
company SG&A

reduce overlap in administrative and sales functions

comes from the ability to utilize a larger mill network and service customers more efficiently

Procurement

is the ability to obtain large volume discounts

We expect to achieve $125 million of these synergies by the end of the first year and $250 million by the end of the second year.

Again,
this merger
will create an industry
leader
that is well positioned
to adapt
to evolving customer
needs
and
to meet the challenges of our markets. However, until the merger closes, we will continue to compete and operate as two independent companies.

The following exchange occurred during the question and answer session after Mr. Harvey's presentation:

Question:

Bill, can you talk about the synergies that you guys indicated with regards to the Abitibi-Bowater merger? You said $125 million in one year; how easily is that to get there? Can you quantify that at all for us? Give us some color on that?

Answer:

What I can describe to you is the process that we went through to develop the numbers, and this was before we had any communication of information between Abitibi and ourselves. We used a consultant and we fed information in to the consultant independently. This was prior to the announcement of the deal. From our point of view we needed

be very comfortable

that synergies

were

large,

we understood

how big

they could

how quickly we could get them. And by using the consultants even before the announcement, that gave us an ability for the consultant to look at competitive information we could not share amongst each other and determine what synergies are available.

So,

just

by

the nature

that process,

it

is very conservative;

at

same

point

it gives
us

a lot of assurance that we can get the synergies. Clearly, it's a more difficult market today than it was four or five months ago so the sense of urgency is even higher and we talked about getting $125 million by the end of year one, that's achievable, and our job is to do it quicker than that.
