MuniHoldings New Jersey Insured Fund, Inc.

The Benefits and Risks of Leveraging

MuniHoldings New Jersey Insured Fund, Inc. utilizes leverage to seek to enhance the yield and net asset value of its Common Stock. However, these objectives cannot be achieved in all interest rate environments. To leverage, the Fund issues Preferred Stock, which pays dividends at prevailing short-term interest rates, and invests the proceeds in long-term municipal bonds. The interest earned on these investments is paid to Common Stock shareholders in the form of dividends, and the value of these portfolio holdings is reflected in the per share net asset value of the Fund's Common Stock. However, in order to benefit Common Stock shareholders, the yield curve must be positively sloped; that is, short-term interest rates must be lower than long-term interest rates. At the same time, a period of generally declining interest rates will benefit Common Stock shareholders. If either of these conditions change, then the risks of leveraging will begin to outweigh the benefits.

To illustrate these concepts, assume a fund's Common Stock capitalization of $100 million and the issuance of Preferred Stock for an additional $50 million, creating a total value of $150 million available for investment in long-term municipal bonds. If prevailing short-term interest rates are approximately 3% and long-term interest rates are approximately 6%, the yield curve has a strongly positive slope. The fund pays dividends on the $50 million of Preferred Stock based on the lower short-term interest rates. At the same time, the fund's total portfolio of $150 million earns the income based on long-term interest rates. Of course, increases in short-term interest rates would reduce (and even eliminate) the dividends on the Common Stock.

In this case, the dividends paid to Preferred Stock shareholders are significantly lower than the income earned on the fund's long-term investments, and therefore the Common Stock shareholders are the beneficiaries of the incremental yield. However, if short-term interest rates rise, narrowing the differential between short-term and long-term interest rates, the incremental yield pickup on the Common Stock will be reduced or eliminated completely. At the same time, the market value of the fund's Common Stock (that is, its price as listed on the New York Stock Exchange) may, as a result, decline. Furthermore, if long-term interest rates rise, the Common Stock's net asset value will reflect the full decline in the price of the portfolio's investments, since the value of the fund's Preferred Stock does not fluctuate. In addition to the decline in net asset value, the market value of the fund's Common Stock may also decline.

As a part of its investment strategy, the Fund may invest in certain securities whose potential income return is inversely related to changes in a floating interest rate ("inverse floaters"). In general, income on inverse floaters will decrease when short-term interest rates increase and increase when short-term interest rates decrease. Investments in inverse floaters may be characterized as derivative securities and may subject the Fund to the risks of reduced or eliminated interest payments and losses of investment principal. In addition, inverse floaters have the effect of providing investment leverage and, as a result, the market value of such securities will generally be more volatile than that of fixed rate, tax-exempt securities. To the extent the Fund invests in inverse floaters, the market value of the Fund's portfolio and the net asset value of the Fund's shares may also be more volatile than if the Fund did not invest in these securities.

Swap Agreements

The Fund may also invest in swap agreements, which are over-the-counter contracts in which one party agrees to make periodic payments based on the change in market value of a specified bond, basket of bonds, or index in return for periodic payments based on a fixed or variable interest rate or the change in market value of a different bond, basket of bonds or index. Swap agreements may be used to obtain exposure to a bond or market without owning or taking physical custody of securities.

MuniHoldings New Jersey Insured Fund, Inc., January 31, 2003

TO OUR SHAREHOLDERS

For the six-month period ended January 31, 2003, the Common Stock of MuniHoldings New Jersey Insured Fund, Inc. had a net annualized yield of 5.82%, based on a period-end per share net asset value of $15.03 and $.441 per share income dividends. Over the same period, the total investment return on the

Fund's Common Stock was +4.08%, based on a change in per share net asset value from $14.90 to $15.03 and assuming reinvestment of $.438 per share ordinary income dividends.

For the six months ended January 31, 2003, the Fund's Auction Market Preferred Stock had an average yield as follows: Series A, 1.03%; Series B, 1.00%; Series C, 1.01%; Series D, 1.07%; and Series E, 1.08%.

The Municipal Market Environment

During the six-month period ended January 31, 2003, long-term fixed income interest rates continued to move lower. As they had in 2002, declining U.S. equity markets and escalating worldwide political tensions easily overshadowed the incipient U.S. economic recovery, allowing bond yields to fall to recent historical lows. Economic releases, such as national employment and purchasing manager surveys, were generally weak early in the period. Additionally, at its August 2002 meeting, the Federal Reserve Board indicated that concerns about future economic weakness outweighed those of rising inflation. This signaled that the Federal Reserve Board was more likely to continue to lower short-term interest rates to boost economic activity rather than to raise them to reduce inflationary pressures. These factors combined to generate a very favorable fixed income environment during August and September 2002. The dramatic decline in equity values in late August and September triggered a significant fixed income rally as investors sought the safe-haven status of U.S. Treasury issues. By the end of September, U.S. Treasury bond yields had fallen to 4.65%.

Bolstered by an unexpected decline in the national unemployment rate to 5.6% in early October, U.S. equity markets staged a strong rally throughout much of the month. The Standard & Poor's 500 (S&P 500) Index rose over 8% for October, triggered by stronger-than-expected earnings reports from a large number of companies, such as General Electric Company, International Business Machines Corporation and Microsoft Corporation. As they have throughout most of the period, bond prices traded in an inverse relationship to equity prices. Consequently, as stocks rallied, bond yields rose in October, despite generally weak economic releases. During October, the U.S. housing sector remained quite robust, but retail sales and industrial production slowed. Fixed income bond yields remained under pressure in November as U.S. equity markets continued to strengthen. During November, the S&P 500 Index rose an additional 5.5%. Equity prices were supported by further signs of U.S. economic recovery, especially improving labor market activity. By the end of November, third quarter gross domestic product growth was 4%. Financial conditions were also strengthened by a larger-than-expected reduction in short-term interest rates by the Federal Reserve Board in early November. The Federal Funds target rate was lowered 50 basis points (.50%) to 1.25%, its lowest level since the 1960s. Recent action by the Federal Reserve Board was largely viewed as being taken to bolster the sputtering U.S. economic recovery. Rebounding U.S. equity markets and the prospects for a more substantial U.S. economic recovery pushed long-term U.S. Treasury yield levels to 5.10% by late November.

In December 2002 and January 2003, softer equity prices and renewed investor concerns about potential military action against Iraq and nuclear tensions in North Korea again pushed bond prices higher. The S&P 500 Index declined more than 5% in December on disappointing earnings reports and anticipated weak holiday retail sales. During January, the S&P 500 Index declined an additional 2.5% as businesses tried to scale back analysts' expectations of future earnings. In early 2003, investors again sought the safety of U.S. Treasury securities. U.S. Treasury bond yields declined more than 25 basis points in December and January to end the period at approximately 4.85%. Over the last six months, U.S. Treasury bond yields fell more than 45 basis points.

For the six-month period ended January 31, 2003, tax-exempt bond prices also generally rose. In recent months, municipal bond yields have declined in response to the positive fixed income environment engendered by falling equity valuations. Price advances in tax-exempt issues have not been able to keep pace with U.S. Treasury bond price improvement as municipal bonds cannot offer foreign investors the safe-haven status U.S. Treasury obligations enjoy in periods of economic and political instability. Additionally, tax-exempt bond issuance increased dramatically in the last half of 2002, removing some of the positive technical support the municipal bond market enjoyed earlier in 2002. At the end of January 2003, long-term municipal bond yields, as measured by the Bond Buyer Revenue Bond Index, stood at 5.34%, a decline of approximately 15 basis points during the last six months.

Investor demand for tax-exempt products remained positive throughout the period. In addition to the approximately $75 billion investors received from June to August 2002 from bond maturities, coupon income and proceeds from early redemptions, investors also received approximately $30 billion from these sources in January 2003. The Investment Company Institute reported that in 2002 municipal bond funds net cash flows were very positive at more than $16 billion, an increase of over 40% compared to 2001. However, these positive demand factors have not been able to offset the increase in tax-exempt new-issue supply that has resulted in the underperformance seen in recent months. This price underperformance served to make municipal bonds a particularly attractive purchase relative to their taxable counterparts. Throughout most of the yield curve, municipal bonds have been available for purchase at yields near or exceeding those of comparable U.S. Treasury issues. Compared to their recent historical averages of 82% - 88% of U.S. Treasury yields, municipal bond yield ratios in their current 95% - 105% range are likely to prove attractive to long-term investors.

Continued uncertainty regarding the pace of the current U.S. economic recovery as well as the resolution of the U.N./Iraq confrontation are likely to keep interest rates near their present levels for the immediate future. Equity market declines over the past three years have helped push interest rates lower than economic fundamentals alone would support. When U.S. business conditions improve and equity markets stabilize, any associated interest rate increases should not be extreme. Inflationary pressures are negligible and any move by the Federal Reserve Board to raise short-term interest rates is unlikely before late 2003. As equity valuations are likely to only gradually improve, the U.S. economic recovery is also likely to be a moderate process. This suggests that the pace of any interest rate increases will also be gradual. As the municipal bond market's strong technical position can be expected to remain supportive in the coming months, future tax-exempt interest rate increases should be more restrained than their taxable counterparts.

Specific to New Jersey, the state faces a deteriorating fiscal situation as continuing sluggish economic growth resulted in lower-than-anticipated tax receipts. In fiscal 2003, a projected deficit of roughly $5.3 billion was addressed by a combination of spending reductions and revenue enhancements. Among initiatives proposed by Governor James McGreevey were a restructuring of the corporate business tax, an increase in cigarette taxes and the imposition of delayed funding increases for municipalities, schools and certain state agencies. An additional $1.8 billion was raised in August 2002 by the securitization of part of the state's tobacco settlement revenues. While these efforts were successful in balancing the budget, the significant reliance on non-recurring revenues will require further measures next year to achieve structural balance. On February 4, 2003, the governor introduced the state's fiscal 2004 budget totaling $23.7 billion in which it was proposed eliminating a projected $5 billion deficit through substantial job cuts, $3.7 billion in spending reductions, and higher taxes on hotels, cigarettes and casinos. These measures are in addition to the treasurer's recent announcement of the state's intent to issue an additional tobacco securitization of more than $1 billion to help close the projected gap. Currently, Moody's Investors Service assigns the state a rating of Aa2 with a negative outlook, while Standard & Poor's maintains a rating of AA with a stable outlook. Although these ratings

MuniHoldings New Jersey Insured Fund, Inc., January 31, 2003

clearly reflect such underlying fundamental strengths as a highly educated workforce and a diverse economic base, it seems likely that prospects for the state's credit ratings hinge largely on the degree to which policymakers successfully deal with the fiscal and economic challenges that lie ahead.

Portfolio Strategy

Portfolio activity during the period consisted primarily of the modest reallocation of portfolio assets into longer-dated securities. In some cases, funding for these purchases came from the early redemption of a portion of the Fund's more seasoned holdings as issuers sought to refinance existing debt in the current low interest rate environment. Other sources included proceeds from the sale of bonds that were advance-refunded and, as a consequence, were valued at substantial premiums. Despite the attractive coupon income typically associated with this type of bond, the premiums tend to amortize at a rapid pace offsetting some of the income-related benefits. Given the uncertainty over future reinvestment prospects, we considered it prudent to lock in gains on the appreciated securities and reinvest the proceeds in high-quality bonds maturing in the 20-year - 25-year range. The shape of the municipal yield curve has become unusually steep in recent months, offering an attractive opportunity to add incremental yield to the portfolio by modestly extending the average maturity of the Fund's holdings.

In terms of sector allocation, tax-backed obligations represented the Fund's single largest commitment, comprising about 50% of portfolio assets. The majority of these holdings are bonds issued by a broad cross section of local school districts and municipalities as well as state agencies carrying either the direct, or in some cases, the implicit guaranty of the state. At approximately 20% of assets, the transportation sector constituted the next largest concentration, reflecting characteristically stable credit fundamentals and the prevalence of issuers such as the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey and the New Jersey Turnpike Authority. The Fund's overall credit profile remains quite strong with approximately 86% of portfolio assets guaranteed by one of the monoline insurers, thus earning the highest of credit ratings and effectively insulating shareholders from any perceived risks associated with the state's budget difficulties.

During the period, the Fund's borrowing costs hovered close to 1%, representing some of the lowest interest rates since the Fund's inception. These funding levels, in combination with a steep tax-exempt yield curve, provided a material income benefit to the Fund's Common Stock shareholders from the leveraging of the Preferred Stock. Further declines in short-term interest rates would require significant easing of monetary policy by the Federal Reserve Board. While such action is not expected, neither is an increase in short-term interest rates. We believe that the Fund's short-term borrowing costs should remain near current levels for much of 2003. However, should the spread between short-term and long-term interest rates narrow, the benefits of leveraging will decline and, as a result, reduce the yield on the Fund's Common Stock. (For a more complete explanation of the benefits and risks of leveraging, see page 1 of this report to shareholders.)

In the months ahead, our portfolio strategy will be premised on the expectation that an aggressively accommodative monetary policy, coupled with improving consumer sentiment and business confidence, will spark an economic rebound.

Edgar Filing: MUNIHOLDINGS NEW JERSEY INSURED FUND INC - Form N-CSR

Recently, prospects for the passage of an aggressive economic stimulus bill have improved dramatically, further raising the likelihood of stronger economic growth. Nevertheless, fixed income markets remain well bid, as existing geopolitical risks appear likely to dominate investors' thoughts for the near term. With this in mind, the portfolio remains positioned for stable-to-modestly higher interest rates, while the adoption of a fully defensive stance appears unwarranted until such time as these risks subside. We will maintain our cash reserves at limited levels, in an effort to enhance the Fund's income distribution.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

1. Significant Accounting Policies:

MuniHoldings New Jersey Insured Fund, Inc. (the "Fund") is registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 as a non-diversified, closed-end management investment company. The Fund's financial statements are prepared in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America, which may require the use of management accruals and estimates. These unaudited financial statements reflect all adjustments, which are, in the opinion of management, necessary to a fair statement of the results for the interim period presented. All such adjustments are of a normal, recurring nature. The Fund determines and makes available for publication the net asset value of its Common Stock on a weekly basis. The Fund's Common Stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange under the symbol MUJ. The following is a summary of significant accounting policies followed by the Fund.

(a) Valuation of investments -- Municipal bonds are traded primarily in the over-the-counter markets and are valued at the most recent bid price or yield equivalent as obtained by the Fund's pricing service from dealers that make markets in such securities. Financial futures contracts and options thereon, which are traded on exchanges, are valued at their closing prices as of the close of such exchanges. Options written or purchased are valued at the last sale price in the case of exchange-traded options. In the case of options traded in the over-the-counter market, valuation is the last asked price (options written) or the last bid price (options purchased). Securities with remaining maturities of sixty days or less are valued at amortized cost, which approximates market value. Securities for which market quotations are not readily available are valued at fair value as determined in good faith by or under the direction of the Board of Directors of the Fund, including valuations furnished by a pricing service retained by the Fund, which may utilize a matrix system for valuations. The procedures of the pricing service and its valuations are reviewed by the officers of the Fund under the general supervision of the Board of Directors.

Edgar Filing: MUNIHOLDINGS NEW JERSEY INSURED FUND INC - Form N-CSR

(b) Derivative financial instruments -- The Fund may engage in various portfolio investment strategies to increase or decrease the level of risk to which the Fund is exposed more quickly and efficiently than transactions in other types of instruments. Losses may arise due to changes in the value of the contract or if the counterparty does not perform under the contract.

o Financial futures contracts -- The Fund may purchase or sell financial futures contracts and options on such futures contracts for the purpose of hedging the market risk on existing securities or the intended purchase of securities. Futures contracts are contracts for delayed delivery of securities at a specific future date and at a specific price or yield. Upon entering into a contract, the Fund deposits and maintains as collateral such initial margin as required by the exchange on which the transaction is effected. Pursuant to the contract, the Fund agrees to receive from or pay to the broker an amount of cash equal to the daily fluctuation in value of the contract. Such receipts or payments are known as variation margin and are recorded by the Fund as unrealized gains or losses. When the contract is closed, the Fund records a realized gain or loss equal to the difference between the value of the contract at the time it was opened and the value at the time it was closed.

o Options -- The Fund is authorized to write covered call options and purchase call and put options. When the Fund writes an option, an amount equal to the premium received by the Fund is reflected as an asset and an equivalent liability. The amount of the liability is subsequently marked to market to reflect the current market value of the option written.

When a security is purchased or sold through an exercise of an option, the related premium paid (or received) is added to (or deducted from) the basis of the security acquired or deducted from (or added to) the proceeds of the security sold. When an option expires (or the Fund enters into a closing transaction), the Fund realizes a gain or loss on the option to the extent of the premiums received or paid (or gain or loss to the extent the cost of the closing transaction exceeds the premium paid or received).

Written and purchased options are non-income producing investments.

o Forward interest rate swaps -- The Fund is authorized to enter into forward interest rate swaps for the purpose of hedging the interest rate risk on portfolio securities. In a forward interest rate swap, the Fund and the counterparty agree to pay or receive interest on a specified notional contract amount, commencing on a specified future effective date, unless terminated earlier. The value of the agreement is determined by quoted fair values received daily by the Fund from the counterparty. When the agreement is closed, the Fund records a realized gain or loss in an amount equal to the value of the agreement.

(c) Income taxes -- It is the Fund's policy to comply with the requirements of the Internal Revenue Code applicable to regulated investment companies and to distribute substantially all of its taxable income to its shareholders. Therefore, no Federal income tax provision is required.

(d) Security transactions and investment income -- Security transactions are recorded on the dates the transactions are entered into (the trade dates). Realized gains and losses on security transactions are determined on the identified cost basis. Dividend income is recorded on the ex-dividend dates. Interest income is recognized on the accrual basis. The Fund amortizes all premiums and discounts on debt securities.

(e) Dividends and distributions -- Dividends from net investment income are declared and paid monthly. Distributions of capital gains are recorded on the ex-dividend dates.

This report, including the financial information herein, is transmitted to shareholders of MuniHoldings New Jersey Insured Fund, Inc. for their information. It is not a prospectus. Past performance results shown in this report should not be considered a representation of future performance.
