BULLETIN: Philippines' PLDT Seeks Noteholders' Consent;

No Rating Impact

SINGAPORE Standard & Poor's Ratings Services said today that Philippine Long Distance Telephone Co.'s (PLDT; foreign currency BB-/Negative/--) solicitation of consent from holders of some of its senior notes to amend certain covenants by itself has no impact on the rating or its outlook. Although the amendments for 11.375% senior notes due 2012 and 10.625% senior notes due 2007 will increase PLDT's flexibility to make restricted payments, particularly common dividends, its financial profile is expected to remain consistent with the current rating level. The company's rating reflects that of the sovereign rating on the Philippines.

PLDT's two most significant proposed amendments that could affect its credit quality are: (1) a change in the formula for computing the restricted payments basket, or the amount available for dividend distribution that PLDT is permitted to make; and (2) a stricter leverage ratio below 3.5x instead of 4.5x in the previous covenants. Based on the proposed change, PLDT's restricted payments will be calculated on a cash flow-based formula (which includes PLDT's stand-alone EBITDA, cash dividends from subsidiaries and cash proceeds from the redemption of subsidiary's preferred shares held by PLDT) instead of net earnings. Standard & Poor's expects PLDT's increasing focus on delivering shareholder value through higher dividend policy will not delay the expected leverage reduction. PLDT generates about US$800 million free cash flow annually. Consolidated debt to EBITDA, which reached 2x at June 30, 2005, is expected to improve to below 1.5x by year-end 2006.
