ISRAELI AIR FORCE CADETS TO TRAIN ON ELBIT SYSTEMS AIRCRAFT

Monday October 28, 8:31 am ET

First 'Snunit' trainer aircraft land at Israel Air Force base

HAIFA, Israel, Oct. 28 /PRNewswire-FirstCall/ -- Elbit Systems Ltd. ("the Company") (Nasdaq: ESLT - News), the international defense company, today announced that the first three GROB G-120-AI trainers ("Snunits") were received yesterday at the Hatzerim Israel Air Force base during a ceremony attended by the Commander of Israel Air Force, Elbit Systems management and other guests. The ten-year contract for operation of the aircraft was awarded to Elbit Systems by The Israeli Ministry of Defense in February 2002. Snunit Aviation Services, a company established by Elbit Systems and its subsidiary, Cyclone Aviation, will operate the new aircraft.

The "Snunits" will be integrated into the flight-training curriculum of Israel Air Force Flight Academy, replacing the currently used "Pipers", and may also be used for training phases now performed by the "Tzokit" aircraft. The "Snunit" is a modern trainer, built of composite materials and has excellent aerobatics capabilities and high safety levels.

Elbit Systems will operate the trainers through a Private Finance Initiative (PFI) program, with the Israel Air Force purchasing flight hours. Snunit Aviation Services will employ a dedicated technical crew to perform all maintenance tasks and assume responsibility for the support of the aircraft according to a multi-year program based on advanced maintenance practices. The PFI concept has already been adopted in other countries worldwide with great success.

GROB, the company that manufactures the "Snunit", is based in Germany and has been active in the field of aviation for three decades during which it has delivered over 3,500 aircraft to private customers and Air Forces all over the world.
