To The Editor:

In the last 3-1/2 months, Stephen Gandel has written seven stories in Fortune regarding Nelson Peltz and Trian, and we believe an objective reader would conclude there is a pattern of bias. Most recently, in “The two deals haunting Nelson’s Peltz’s fight for DuPont,” Mr. Gandel ignored factual information Trian provided to him that undercuts his preconceived view that Mr. Peltz is not qualified to be a director of DuPont. These facts were all readily verifiable by reviewing SEC filings, but Mr. Gandel chose not to include them in his highly misleading portrait of our involvement with Uniroyal Chemical and Chemtura. We believe your readers deserve to have the same facts we provided to Fortune. They are as follows:

A company controlled by Nelson Peltz and Peter May acquired Uniroyal Chemical for $710 million in 1986. It was sold in October 1989 for $800 million. During that period of ownership, annualized cash flow (EBITDA) nearly doubled from approximately $92 million to approximately $180 million. EBITDA to interest coverage was nearly two times in 1989.

Trian invested less than $100 million in Chemtura in 2006 and Ed Garden was invited to join the board in early 2007. The company met or beat consensus expectations for four consecutive quarters beginning with the fourth quarter of 2007, after missing expectations for the previous five quarters. During Mr. Garden’s tenure on the Board, Chemtura’s debt levels were essentially flat. However, in 2008, the credit markets collapsed and Chemtura was unable to refinance a bond maturity, despite having ample credit lines prior to the collapse. In March 2009, it filed for bankruptcy, as did many other chemical and industrial companies such as LyondellBasell and General Motors, where DuPont’s CEO, Ellen Kullman, served on the audit committee from 2005 to 2008. Under more normal market conditions, Chemtura believed it would have been able to refinance its debt, according to an SEC filing it made in 2009. Importantly, the Chemtura shareholders recovered value for their equity, unlike the GM shareholders who were completely wiped out.

We are confident that DuPont shareholders won’t buy the premise of Mr. Gandel’s article that Nelson Peltz would not be a good board member at DuPont based on Trian’s involvement at Chemtura, which was bankrupted by a “black swan” event, and the Uniroyal Chemical deal from over 25 years ago. We believe Fortune’s time would be better spent probing the consistent operating underperformance at DuPont.

Sincerely,
