(1) This amendment to Mr. Paolino's form 4 filed on December 10, 2004 updates the information included in the original form 4 based upon new information received by Mr. Paolino's litigation counsel.

(2) On April 21, 2004 Mr. Paolino borrowed $4,105,500 on a limited non-recourse basis (under certain circumstances the loan was recourse) and secured the loan with a pledge of 1,190,000 shares of Mace Security Internatioanl, Inc. common stock. On November 3, 2004, Mr. Paolino received a notice dated November 2, 2004 from the lender that asserted that (i) Mr. Paolino was in default of the loan, and (ii) the lender would exercise its purported rights under the loan agreements. The lender asserted that its purported rights under the loan agreement include the right to (i) terminate the laon agreement and (ii) take possession of the pledged stock. Mr. Paolino does not believe that the lender was entitled to terminate the loan and take possession of the pledged stock.

(3) The lender maintains that Mr. Paolino defaulted on the loan by failing to pay an interest payment when due, although Mr. Paolino tendered the interest payment to the lender upon receiving the notice dated November 2, 2004 and the lender accepted the payment. The value of the pledged stock at the close of market on December 8, 2004 was $5,961,900, which exceeded the loan by $1,856,400. Mr. Paolino and the lender had agreed to a standstill agreement while negotiating their dispute. The standstill agreement expired on December 8, 2004. During the standstill agreement the Lender had agreed not to sell or otherwise dispose of the pledged shares. Mr. Paolino filed suit against the lender on December 16, 2004 to enjoin the lender from selling the pledged stock and seeking other equitable and legal relief.

Edgar Filing: MACE SECURITY INTERNATIONAL INC - Form 4/A

On December 16, 2004, Mr. Paolino was successful in having a Court grant a temporary restraining order, which among other things, enjoined the lender from selling the pledged stock. On December 21, 2004, the lender's litigation counsel first disclosed to Mr. Paolino's litigation counsel that the lender sold the 1,190,000 pledged shares in one or more transactions. Mr. Paolino believes that the terms of the

- (4) Court order against the lender require the lender to provide information about the sales; however, the lender has not yet provided any information regarding the dates on which such sales occurred or the prices at which such sales occurred. In the litigation, Mr. Paolino is seeking all possible relief in law and equity. One remedy that the Court could impose is the resotration of the loan and the return of the 1,190,000 pledged shares.
