Item 2.02 Results of Operations and Financial Condition

In addition to financial results determined in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP), the Company also views EBITDAX a useful tool for comparisons the Company's financial performance. EBITDAX is a non-GAAP financial measure defined as earnings before depletion, depreciation and amortization expense; exploration expense; interest expense; other income or expense; income taxes; non-cash stock based compensation; and cumulative effect of accounting change. EBITDAX is widely accepted by the investment community as a financial indicator of a company s ability to internally fund exploration and development activities and to service or incur debt. EBITDAX should not be considered as an alternative to net income or net cash provided by operating activities, as defined by GAAP. EBITDAX as presented below may not be comparable to similarly titled measures of other companies.

The following table reconciles EBITDAX to net income, which is the most directly comparable GAAP measure:

	Y	Year Ended December
		31,
		2004		2003
Net income	$	82,147	$	63,641
