Item 8.01. Other Events.

Pursuant to an Agreement and Plan of Merger, dated July 2, 2007, as amended (the Merger Agreement), between Washington Federal, Inc. (Washington Federal) and First Mutual Bancshares, Inc. (First Mutual), First Mutual will merge with and into Washington Federal (the Merger). Under the terms of the Agreement, if the average closing price of Washington Federal s common stock during the 10 trading day period ending with the close of business on the fifth business day prior to closing of the Merger (pricing period) is less than $22.75, then Washington Federal, in its sole discretion, may elect to pay all cash to stockholders of First Mutual for their shares of First Mutual common stock, regardless of their election to receive cash or stock consideration. As previously disclosed, the Merger is scheduled to close on February 1, 2008, therefore, the pricing period ended on January 25, 2008. The average closing price for Washington Federal s common stock during the pricing period was below $22.75.

Washington Federal has elected to pay all cash consideration to the stockholders of First Mutual for their shares of First Mutual common stock. Based on the current number of shares of First Mutual common stock outstanding, First Mutual stockholders will receive $26.8359 in cash for each share of First Mutual common stock owned. Mellon Investor Services, the exchange agent for the Merger, will mail the cash consideration to the First Mutual stockholders who have surrendered their shares of First Mutual stock shortly after the closing of the Merger.

Additional Information About the Washington Federal First Mutual Transaction

First Mutual stockholders are urged to read the proxy statement/prospectus regarding the proposed merger of Washington Federal and First Mutual, which was first mailed to First Mutual stockholders on or about September 10, 2007, because it contains important information. They may obtain a free copy of the proxy statement/prospectus and other related documents filed by Washington Federal and First Mutual with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) at the SEC s Web site at www.sec.gov. The proxy statement/prospectus and the other documents also may be obtained for free by accessing Washington Federal s Web site at www.washingtonfederal.com or by accessing First Mutual s Web site at www.firstmutual.com.

Forward-looking Statements

Statements contained herein that are not historical facts should be considered forward-looking statements with respect to Washington Federal or First Mutual. Forward-looking statements of this type speak only as of the date of this report. By nature, forward-looking statements involve inherent risk and uncertainties. Various factors, including, but not limited to, unforeseen local, regional, national or global events, economic conditions, asset quality, interest rates, loan demand, changes in business or consumer spending, borrowing or savings habits, deposit growth, adequacy of the reserve for loan losses, competition, stock price volatility, government monetary policy, anticipated expense levels, changes in laws and regulations, the level of success of the company s asset/liability management strategies as well as its marketing, product development, sales and other strategies, the effect of changes in accounting policies and practices, as may be adopted by the regulatory agencies as well as the Financial Accounting Standards Board and other accounting standard setters, the costs and effects of litigation and of unexpected or adverse outcomes in such litigation, matters related to the proposed transaction between Washington Federal and First Mutual (including, among others, risks related to integration issues and cost and revenue synergies) and changes in the assumptions used in making the forward-looking statements, could cause actual results to differ materially from those contemplated by the forward-looking statements. Washington Federal undertakes no obligation to update or revise forward-looking statements to reflect subsequent circumstances, events or information or for any other reason.
