CGI provides services to over 2,300 credit unions making it one of the largest providers of consulting, integration and operational services to the industry across North America.

"Our goal is to find the best IT service delivery channel for our 320,000 end users while at the same time reduce our IT delivery costs. To do that, we have to provide quality solutions in a faster timeframe. We sought a strategic IT partner, who had the industry knowledge, focus and ability to build the infrastructure for our banking solution. That is how CGI came into the picture," said Steve Mills, senior vice-president & chief operating officer of League Data.

Michael Roach, president and chief operating officer, of CGI added: "We are very proud to be chosen by League Data as their strategic IT partner.
