Cautionary Note Regarding Forward Looking Statements

This press release contains forward-looking statements. In some cases, forward-looking statements can be identified by words such as believe, expect, anticipate, plan, potential, continue or similar expressions. Such forward-looking statements are based upon current expectations and beliefs and are subject to a number of factors and uncertainties that could cause actual results to differ materially from those described in the forward-looking statements. Some of the forward-looking statements contained in this press release include statements about the proposed Stantec and TKC merger; including statements that: (i) the merger will allow the combined company to realize strategic goals; (ii) the merger is expected to be accretive to earnings of the combined company; (iii) the merger will allow Stantec to increase its revenues from its United States operations by approximately 70%; (iv) the combination with TKC will allow Stantec opportunities to cross sell services to TKC's client base; and (v) the TKC shareholders will realize a premium. These statements are not guarantees of future performance, involve certain risks, uncertainties and assumptions that are difficult to predict, and are based upon assumptions as to future events that may not prove accurate. Therefore, actual outcomes and results may differ materially from what is expressed herein. For example, if TKC does not receive required shareholder approvals, if Stantec is unable to list its stock on a major US exchange or either party fails to satisfy other conditions to closing, the merger will not be consummated. In addition, the combined companies may not realize all or any of the expected benefits of the merger. The following factors, among others, could cause actual results to differ materially from those described in the forward-looking statements: global capital market activities, fluctuations in interest rates and currency values, the effects of war or terrorist activities, the effects of disease or illness on local, national, or international economies, the effects of disruptions to public infrastructure, such as transportation or communications, disruptions in power or water supply, industry and worldwide economic and political conditions, regulatory and statutory developments, the effects of competition in the geographic and business areas in which the companies operate, the actions of management, and technological changes. Actual results may differ materially from those contained in the forward-looking statements in this press release.

Our Next Step

On April 14, 2005 Stantec and The Keith Companies (TKC) reached an agreement that will result in the combining of the two firms. The merger of Stantec and TKC is the next step for both companies. We created this web site so that our employees, shareholders, and clients will have a single source for all the information they need about this next stage of growth for our two firms.

Integration

TKC offers a complementary mix of office locations and services that, when integrated into Stantec, will make up a strong US presence and a top tier firm in the southwestern and western regions of the country.

Geographic

Services

TKC and Stantec's urban land groups combined will make up a leading service provider for the land development market in North America. Together the firms have a strong presence in California, Nevada, Arizona, Alberta, and Ontario regions of continued population growth and good markets for land development services in North America.

TKC's foundation in California will offer opportunities for Stantec to cross sell its public sector services in the Transportation and Environment markets where the firm is a recognized leader in water and wastewater treatment facilities, environmental management, bridge and roadway design, and transit systems including light rail, among many other services.
