On October 23, 2008, G&K Services, Inc. (the Company ) entered into an Executive Employment Agreement effective October 23, 2008 (the Agreement ) with Timothy N. Curran, the Company's Vice President, U.S. Field. The summary of the Agreement set forth herein is subject to the actual terms of such Agreement.

Mr. Curran had previously entered into an agreement with the Company respecting his employment as Regional Vice President, Southeast Region. Any employment or change of control agreement previously entered into between the Company and Mr. Curran is superseded by the Agreement, except as otherwise specifically set forth therein. The purpose of the Agreement is to acknowledge Mr. Curran's promotion to Senior Vice President, U.S. Field and to ensure consistency with the Company's current agreements with other executives, address executive compensation arrangements and governance trends and to allow for periodic review of the Agreement by the Company.

Under the Agreement, Mr. Curran's employment is for an indefinite term, and his annual base salary will be set by the Company's Board of Directors (Board ) or the Compensation Committee thereof. In addition to his base salary, under the Agreement, Mr. Curran will be permitted to participate in all Company plans for which he is or becomes eligible, subject to the Company's right to amend or terminate any such plan;

entitled to a target incentive opportunity under the Company's annual management incentive plan in effect;

entitled to participate in or receive benefits under any Company plan generally made available in the future to Company executives, subject to the terms of any such plan and the applicable provisions of the Agreement; and entitled to any other fringe benefit or perquisite that the Compensation Committee of the Board approves.

Except as specifically provided therein, the Agreement and Mr. Curran's employment thereunder may be terminated by the Company or by Mr. Curran on thirty days advance written notice, or by Mr. Curran for any reason or no reason, or at any time by mutual written agreement of the parties. During the pendency of any termination, at the Company's request, Mr. Curran will continue to render his normal services to the Company, and the Company will continue to compensate him and provide benefits through the actual date of termination. In addition, the Agreement and Mr. Curran's employment thereunder will terminate in the event of Mr. Curran's death or, as more fully described in the Agreement, his disability. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the provisions of the Agreement which by their terms remain enforceable after any termination of employment will remain so enforceable.

In addition, the Company may terminate Mr. Curran's employment for cause, which is defined in the Agreement using customary terms, subject to Mr. Curran's ability to cure in certain instances.

The Company is required to make certain payments and to extend certain benefits to Mr. Curran in the event of any termination of the Agreement or Mr. Curran's employment thereunder, as follows:

during any period in which Mr. Curran fails to perform his duties under the Agreement as a result of his incapacity due to physical or mental illness or bodily injury or disease, he will continue to receive all base salary and other compensation and benefits to which he would otherwise be entitled under the Agreement and any Company plan through the actual date of any termination, but only to the extent that Mr. Curran is not receiving substantially equivalent benefits under any plan maintained by the Company; and in the event that Mr. Curran's employment under the Agreement is terminated by the Company without cause, provided that Mr. Curran first executes and abides by the terms of a customary written release, the Company must provide to Mr. Curran the following benefits:

- o the Company must pay to Mr. Curran, as separation pay, an amount equal to eleven months of Mr. Curran's monthly base salary in effect as of the actual date of termination, such separation pay being made in weekly payments, subject to the terms of such release;
- o subject to the Company's right to make a lump sum payment to Mr. Curran, if Mr. Curran (or any individual receiving group health plan benefits through him) is eligible under applicable law to continue participation in the Company's group health plan and elects to do so, the Company will, for a period of up to 17 months commencing as of the actual date of termination, continue to pay Mr. Curran's share of the cost of such benefits as if Mr. Curran remained in the Company's continuous employment, but only while Mr. Curran or such person is not eligible for coverage under any other employer's group health plan;
- o the Company will, for a period of at least six months commencing as of the actual date of termination, pay directly to the subject provider or reimburse Mr. Curran for all reasonable expenses of a reputable outplacement organization selected by Mr. Curran, such payments not to exceed $12,000.00 in the aggregate; and
- o the Company will pay to Mr. Curran any unpaid management incentive bonus earned by Mr. Curran and to which Mr. Curran is entitled as of the last day of the fiscal year prior to the actual date of termination, such payment being made in accordance with the terms of the related plan.

Mr. Curran is not required to mitigate the Company's foregoing payment and other obligations, and Mr. Curran's commencement of employment with another employer will not reduce such obligations.

The Agreement also extends certain benefits to Mr. Curran in the event of a change in control of the Company and the related termination of Mr. Curran's employment by Mr. Curran for good reason or by the Company for any reason other than for cause or for no reason, in each case, prior to the first anniversary of the change in control. Each of change in control and good reason is defined in the Agreement using customary terms. Specifically, in such event, the Company must provide Mr. Curran thirty days advance written notice of the date of termination, during which time Mr. Curran will continue to receive all base salary and other compensation and benefits to which he would otherwise be entitled. Further, in such event, the Company must pay Mr. Curran the amounts set forth below, provided that to the extent Mr. Curran receives the same type of benefits under the Agreement or otherwise, such amounts will be offset by these other benefits to the extent necessary to prevent duplication, and provided further that Mr. Curran first executes and abides by the terms of a customary written release. Specifically, in such event, the Company will pay Mr. Curran an amount equal to 17 months of Mr. Curran's base salary in effect as of the actual date of termination as separation pay, the same being paid in weekly payments equal to the amount of Mr. Curran's current weekly base salary, provided that, if required for purposes of avoiding excise tax or other penalties under Section 409A of the Internal Revenue Code, payment will commence one week following the sixth month anniversary of the actual date of termination and shall include a lump sum equal to the amount that Mr. Curran would have received had payment commenced upon such date;

provide Mr. Curran and any individual receiving group health plan benefits through him the group health plan benefits described above;

provide Mr. Curran the outplacement benefits discussed above;

pay Mr. Curran a lump sum payment equal to the amount that is necessary to acquire for, and obtain full title issued in the name of Mr. Curran, any personal automobile then leased by the Company for Mr. Curran;

pay for financial planning and tax preparation expenses, not to exceed $2,500.00 per annum, or such greater amount as determined from time to time by the Board, for 17 months following the actual date of termination; and in accordance with the terms of the applicable plan, pay any management incentive bonus which Mr. Curran earned, and to which Mr. Curran is entitled, as of the last day of the fiscal year prior to the actual date of termination.

Mr. Curran is not required to mitigate the Company's payment and other obligations discussed above by making any efforts to secure other employment, and Mr. Curran's commencement of employment with another employer will not reduce such obligations of the Company.

In addition, upon the occurrence of a change in control, and without regard to Mr. Curran's employment status, but presuming that the Mr. Curran remains in the Company's employ on the date of the change in control, the following shall occur, without regard to any contrary determination by the Board or a majority of the Company's continuing directors (as such term is defined in the Agreement), with respect to any and all economic incentives, including, without limitation, stock options and awards of restricted stock that are owned by Mr. Curran on the date of the change in control:

the restrictions set forth in Company plan pursuant to which such incentives were granted on all restricted stock awards will lapse immediately as of the date of the change in control;

all outstanding options and stock appreciation rights will become exercisable immediately as of the date of the change in control; and all performance shares will be deemed to be met and payment made immediately as of the date of the change in control.

Notwithstanding anything in the Agreement to the contrary, if any amount or benefit to be paid or provided to Mr. Curran pursuant to a change in control of the Company, or any other plan or agreement between Mr. Curran and the Company, would be an Excess Parachute Payment, within the meaning of Section 280G of the Internal Revenue Code, or any successor provision thereto, but for the application of this sentence, then the payments and benefits to be paid or provided under the Agreement in the event of a change in control of the Company will be reduced to the minimum extent necessary (but in no event to less than zero) so that no portion of any such payment or benefit, as so reduced, constitutes an Excess Parachute Payment; provided, however, that the foregoing reduction will be made only if and to the extent that such reduction would result in an increase in the aggregate payment and benefits to be provided to Mr. Curran, determined on an after-tax basis (taking into account the excise tax imposed pursuant to Section 4999 of the Internal Revenue Code, or any successor provision thereto, any tax imposed by any comparable provision of state law, and any applicable federal, state and local income taxes). As part of the Agreement, Mr. Curran agrees to take such action as the Company reasonably requests to mitigate or challenge the application of such tax, provided that the Company shall supply such counsel and expert advice, including legal counsel and accounting advice, as may reasonably be required, and shall be responsible for the payment of such experts' fees. Mr. Curran and/or the Company may request that the determination of whether any reduction in such payments or benefits to be provided under the Agreement in the event of a change in control of the Company or otherwise is required be made by an independent big 4 of other mutually acceptable accounting firm, at the Company's expense. Finally, in the event that any such payment or benefit intended to be provided in the event of a change in control of the Company or otherwise is required to be reduced, Mr. Curran will be entitled to designate the payments and/or benefits to be so reduced.

In addition to other customary terms and conditions, the Agreement also contains customary provisions respecting the protection of the Company's confidential information, including that Mr. Curran may not disclose or use such information to the Company's detriment, and that he must return all such information to the Company upon any termination of his employment. The Agreement also prescribes customary noncompetition obligations, including that

Mr. Curran may not compete with the Company during his employment or for 18 months following termination of his employment, and that he may not, during such period,

- o call upon, solicit or attempt to take away any customers, accounts or prospective customers of the Company;
- o solicit, induce or encourage any supplier of the Company to cease its business relationship with the Company or to violate any term of any contract with the Company; or
- o solicit, induce or encourage any employee of the Company to violate any term of his or her employment contract with the Company or to directly or indirectly hire or solicit, induce, recruit or encourage any of the Company's employees for the purpose of hiring them or inducing them to leave their employment with the Company.

The Agreement also contains standard terms pursuant to which Mr. Curran assigns to the Company certain intellectual and other property rights.

Under the Agreement, during and after any termination of Mr. Curran's employment, Mr. Curran must refrain from communicating to any person any statements or opinions that are negative in any way about the Company or any of its past, present or future officials. In return, whenever the Company sends or receives any notice of termination relative to Mr. Curran's terminated employment under the Agreement, the Company must advise the members of its operating committee and executive committee (or any successors to such committees) to refrain from negative communications about Mr. Curran to third parties. Any violation of the foregoing described provisions of the Agreement by Mr. Curran will result in the immediate forfeiture of any unpaid benefits under the Agreement, and, in such event, Mr. Curran must repay to the Company any amounts paid to him following his termination of employment.

The Agreement may not be modified or amended except by written instrument signed by the parties; provided, however, that the Agreement shall be amended or modified by the parties when and as necessary to assure compliance with laws and regulations related to executive compensation. It further is a matter of corporate governance that the Company's executive employment agreements, including the Agreement, be reviewed periodically, and no less than once every three years while in effect, for the purpose of evaluating consistency with Company goals and objectives and alignment with interests of Company shareholders.

Finally, under the terms of the Agreement, the Company shall, with Mr. Curran's consent, timely amend the Agreement as many times as may be required so that adverse tax consequences to Mr. Curran under Section 409A of the Internal Revenue Code, including the imposition of any excise tax and interest penalties, are avoided.
